City Ready to Disclaim Relief Onus

PLANS TO ADOPT NEW SCALE BUT REFUSE BURDEN

Relief Committee Asks City Council to Protest to Premier Bennett on Slash in Allowances Fixed By Provincial Government

ALL COMPLAINTS GO TO FINANCE MINISTER

Committee Wrestles With Problem All Morning and Decides New Scale to Become Effective December 1

In an all-morning session in Mayor Leeming's office, the city relief committee to-day formed its policy on the new Jones relief scale for submission to the City Council this afternoon.

The main features of the committee's report are:

That the new scale of $17.50 maximum for a man and wife be put into force on December 1, according to the government's ultimatum.

That the city protest to Premier Bennett at Ottawa over the cut in allowances.

That any complaints received from the unemployed regarding the cut be referred directly to the provincial government, the city disclaiming all responsibility and maintaining the allowances inadequate.

If adopted by the council, the report, it sponsors claim, will be tantamount to placing the whole responsibility for relief allowances in Victoria on the shoulders of the provincial government.

The city will be forced to contribute one-third of the cost, as before, but otherwise will not accept onus for the scale paid.

UNABLE TO MEET DIFFERENCE
"We recognize," the report states, "that the government allowances are inadequate to take care of the needs of the unemployed, that the taxpayers of Victoria are unable to take care of the difference between this allowance and that of the past, and, realizing by matter can only be determined by public opinion, we are of the opinion the City Council should follow the recommendations laid down by the government and to which Mr. Jones, Minister of Finance, said we had to give a trial."

The protest to Premier Bennett, it is stated, is based on the city's understanding that the Dominion Government will provide one-third of the cost of relief, and not one-third of the cost.

Premier Charged With Placing Burden of Failure on Party in B.C.

Delegates Threaten Bitter Leadership Fight at Annual Meeting

Vancouver, Nov. 25.—The burning question of leadership overshadowed all other subjects as Conservatives assembled here for the annual meeting of the B.C. Conservative Association, which opened this afternoon and will conclude to-morrow.

New complications have arisen to create more confusion in the party, as the burning question since Conservatives last assembled and insurgents in the party are frankly sceptical of the union government plan for which it is anticipated Premier Tominie will seek endorsement.

While some loyal supporters of Premier Tominie are behind him on the plan, his proposal has further fanned the flames of dissension against his leadership which some individual Conservatives and Conservative organizations entertain.

Whether the delegates will be as outspoken at the meeting as they are in the hotel corridors is a question. If they are there will be a number of charges leveled at the head of the Premier. Accusations similar to those voiced at ward meetings will be made in free and open discussion is permitted.

The Premier has been charged with being a traitor to his party by pledging it to a union government policy without first securing the views of the members on the subject.

POUND $3.77 AT MONTREAL

Exchange rates at noon to-day were quoted by the Canadian Press as follows:

Pound sterling in Montreal, $3.77.

U.S. dollar in Montreal, $1.17 1/2.

POUND NOW AT NEW LOW

Sterling Drops to Point Not Reached Since 1920; Canadian Dollar Down

Canadian Press and Associated Press New York, Nov. 25.—United States dollars held firm against Canadian dollars here to-day, being quoted at a premium of 18 per cent, compared with a premium of 15.5 on Wednesday.

Sterling opened decidedly weak at $3.21 in United States funds, a decline of 4 1/2 cents. It firmed at noon, advancing 1/2 cent to $3.21 1/2.

It closed at $3.20 1/2. The drop set a new low for the pound since February 5, 1920, when it broke to $3.18.

The $3.18 price was reported the lowest at which the market had ever sold in terms of the United States dollar.

Weakness of sterling was attributed to expectation the British treasury would remit its December 15 debt installment to the United States.

Recent rumors that Britain, in order to safeguard its currency, had obtained assurance of new United States banking credit, were discredited in well informed quarters.

Trading was light and there appeared to be no fresh influences beyond what brokers felt was the "debt uncertainty," and the market seemed to be waiting for the United States market openings.

Sterling closed at $3.21 1/2. The stock exchange was idle owing to the prevailing uncertainty.

H. E. GUNNISON DIES
New York, Nov. 25.—Herbert F. Gunnison, seventy-four, a native of Halifax and former president and publisher of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle died at his home in Brooklyn to-day after a lingering illness.

He was born in 1858 and was a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Magistrate George Jay gave some advice in the City Police Court this morning on the subject of wars.

"In future you'd better avoid the discussion of wars because that's how they are started, just as in this case," he told an accused man in an assault case.

From the evidence it appeared the two men involved had been discussing in a Johnson Street restaurant the question of preparation for war.

One man vehemently claimed there was a world war in the making at the present time. The other disagreed.

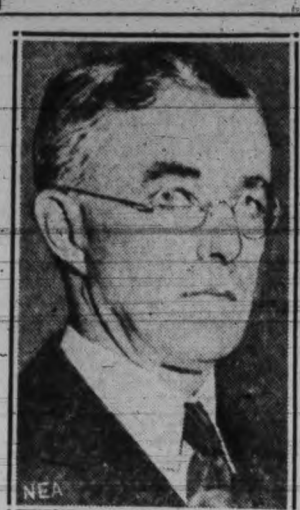

Eventually the discussion reached such a heat that the warlike man's jaw came in contact with the other's fist.

The man on the receiving end claimed he had been punched in the jaw. The other said he had given his debating opponent a hard push.

The defendant asserted he had been called an "ignoramus" and it was "like a slap in the face."

There were no other witnesses and the magistrate dismissed the charge, but warned the defendant to be careful about pushing people in the face in future.

OTTAWA SESSION NEARING END

Canadian Press Ottawa, Nov. 25.—Parliament may adjourn about 9 o'clock to-night. The time was agreed on tentatively in the Commons this afternoon. There may be obstacles, however, that will postpone adjournment until to-morrow forenoon. A definite decision will be made when the House rises for the dinner recess.

FIVE ALDERMEN URGED TO RESIGN

Calgary, Nov. 25.—The Calgary Unemployed Married Men's Association to-day continued its efforts to remove four Civic Government Association aldermen and one independent alderman from office on the grounds of inefficiency and discrimination in relief payments.

Petitions seeking sufficient signatures to carry the recall proceedings are being circulated by the Unemployed Association. If the aldermen do not resign when the petitions are presented, unemployed officials say, the matter will be taken to a higher court.

Commons Soon to Name Committee On Redistribution

Bill Adding to Membership of House to Be Drafted By Group; Premier Makes Statement

Canadian Press Ottawa, Nov. 25.—It is planned a Commons committee of twenty members will draft the redistribution bill. The House was informed by Premier Bennett to-day it was proposed the committee be composed of eleven Conservatives, seven Liberals and two Progressives.

The redistribution bill will set representation in the House for the next ten years and definite constituency boundaries.

Former changes
In moving second reading of the measure, Premier Bennett made a brief statement. The method now being adopted of bringing down a bill which left constituency boundaries blank was identical with that adopted in 1903 when Sir Wilfrid Laurier introduced the redistribution measure, he said.

The practice then commenced had been carried on in succeeding redistributions, and was followed when the bill was introduced in 1923 by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

The Prime Minister went on to explain the method of computing the representation for each province as provided in the British North America Act.

The province of Quebec, he said, was given a fixed membership of sixty-five, and representation in the other provinces was based on the relation which that number bore to the population of Quebec. There were certain exceptions to this rule, which were set forth in the act.

Victorian Explores The Color And Charm Of The Orient

James K. Nesbitt of The Victoria Daily Times staff recently visited battle-scarred China, outside of Shanghai, where the guns of Japan were pounding away a few months ago. He found many other interesting things in the Orient—its color and charm, went through Hong-kong's pirate zone, explored the horrible squalor of Canton and Shanghai's "Cat Street" of thieves, was charmed by the busy, always-smiling people of Japan and saw the prisoners on parade in Manila. He writes of it all in an illustrated feature article to be published in to-morrow's Magazine Section of The Victoria Daily Times.

Other features of the Saturday Magazine Section will include: How Helen Hayes, cleverest of present-day stage stars, has found herself playing the lead in a three-act comedy real life romance. A wise old Wall Street banker reveals what is behind these hard times, and explains the war debt situation.

When a John D. Rockefeller marries—the kind of a wedding the family stages for him and his bride. Frank Buck of "Bring 'em Back Alive" fame tells how the Chinese plot for tiger corpses to get the lucky gall bladder.

Canadian Press Revelstoke, B.C., Nov. 25.—Nels Nelson, famous skier, had his left hand amputated at the wrist to-day, following a hunting accident in which his gun discharged, the shot entering the left hand.

Nelson went on skis on a duck hunting trip to Montana Slough. It is understood his skis slipped from under him, and in the fall his gun discharged. Road Superintendent W. Fleming brought Nelson to the hospital here, where it was found amputation was necessary.

MAN WHO SLEW SIX IS HELD

Seattle, Nov. 25.—A thirty-year-old Filipino, Julian Marcelino, who stabbed six men to death, and wounded thirteen persons, including a Japanese woman, in a mad frenzy, said in his cell to-day: "My life is not worth all those lives."

Deputy Prosecutor William J. Wilkins prepared to file first degree murder charges against the slayer. Conviction would call for life imprisonment or hanging.

The murderer, who said he had served three years in the Philippine Constabulary, told authorities "his mind turned over" late yesterday because two persons had suggested and robbed him of $200 Wednesday evening and he discovered $100 was missing from a cache in a room he shared with Pito Guallo, fifty, another Filipino, who was killed by Marcelino late yesterday afternoon.

After he had left a trail of dead and wounded in the south end of the city, he was captured on a street corner where he stood with his trembling hands in the air, by Patrolmen George C. Jensen and William Reynolds and Detective T. G. Montgomery.

He said he could not remember how he had raced along the blocks near Sixth Avenue South and King Street, attacking unsuspecting passerby, window shoppers, a Japanese woman walking with her child, a man standing picking his teeth after a Thanksgiving Day dinner and a Japanese he greeted with a "Hello, papa" before he slashed him with a seven-inch knife.

Police first listed eleven wounded, but a later check-up revealed there were thirteen. To-day Marcelino said he "had not slept very well, but he was feeling fine."

In an attempt to explain his crime, which took a greater toll than any public catastrophe here in recent years, he said:

JAPANESE BUDGET FOR GREAT DEFICIT

Gap in 1933-34 Which Must Be Covered By Bond Issues Estimated at $179,400,000; Armed Forces' Requirements Grow

By Glenn Babb, Associated Press Staff Correspondent Tokyo, Nov. 25.—The largest national budget in the history of Japan—2,239,000,000 yen ($447,800,000)—was approved by the cabinet to-day in the face of advice from influential financial interests urging economy.

The 1933-34 outlay, swollen by demands of the army and the navy chiefly in connection with Manchuria, involves a deficit for the year beginning April 1, 1933, of 897,000,000 yen ($179,400,000), for which bonds must be issued.

Before the announcement of the new budget, Baron Seinoike Goh, president of the Japan Chamber of Commerce, declared the government's policy of dependence on bond issues was increasing the national debt greatly and threatening currency inflation and further decline of the yen, leading toward something like Germany's post-war collapse.

Baron Goh was speaking at a dinner of the Chamber of Commerce, attended by Gen. Sadao Araki, Minister of War, and other cabinet members.

CONTINENTAL ADVENTURE
According to the vernacular press, Gen. Araki replied that only after conditions on the neighboring continent had been stabilized should economic questions be given primary consideration.

In this connection Gen. Araki recently said: "The economic and financial situation of the world is very serious."

Canadian Press Toronto, Nov. 25.—John Fainick, arrested at Edmonton in connection with the holdup and robbery of a bank at Aurora, near here, was sentenced to-day to five years in the penitentiary and fifteen lashes.

He will be deported at the expiration of the prison term to a country of his own choice. Two others who participated in the robbery were sentenced to ten years' imprisonment some months ago.

Parents Go Back To School Again

Twenty-two parents attended the school and in Grades 5 and 8 the pupils left their desks and the parents took their places. With memories of helping their young sons and daughters with homework they did so with a little trepidation. With the passing of time they had grown weak on subjects on which they dare not show their ignorance to the rising generation. For half an hour they became school children again.

It was an ordeal, some of the outspoken ones admitted after their lessons. "We couldn't believe we had forgotten so much. We will be inclined to be a little more sympathetic when the kids are puzzled over their lessons in future."

Classes in phonics and arithmetic in Grades 1 to 4 were conducted by Miss Keenly, teacher of the junior school.

FIND WOMAN KILLED SON

Johannesburg Jurors Declare Mrs. Daisy de Melker Guilty of Murder

Sentenced to Death; Acquitted of Charges of Killing Two Husbands

Canadian Press and Associated Press Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Daisy Louise de Melker, aged forty-four, was convicted to-day of having murdered her son by poisoning and was sentenced to death. She was acquitted of charges of murdering two former husbands.

She went on trial October 17 on the three murder counts. The room was crowded at all sittings of the court. The prosecutor charged the woman poisoned her first husband, William Alfred Rowle, in 1923; her second husband, Robert Sprout, in 1927; and her son, Cecil Rhodes Rowle, last March.

It was charged the two husbands died after having made wills in her favor and the son after having assigned to his mother an insurance policy of £500.

Mrs. de Melker is now the wife of a famous South African rugby player. "I'M NOT GUILTY"

"Have you anything to say before sentence is passed on you?" the judge asked.

Tears streamed down Mrs. de Melker's face as she rose, her hands clasped tightly on the counsel table. "I'm not guilty of poisoning my son," she replied in a quivering voice.

Then the sentence was imposed. Mrs. de Melker shook her head as though dazed. Two policemen and a prison matron led her away.

Leaders of Organization Groups Addressed By Mr. King, Leader, in Ottawa

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—The National Liberal Advisory committee, of which Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is chairman, met here to-day and discussed organization matters.

After a brief opening address by Mr. King, the committee turned to the consideration of business matters in connection with the movement of the last year which is building up a strong organization. Conferences, which were in private, lasted throughout the morning and continued in the afternoon, with a session possible to-morrow.

Confirmation of Hon. Vincent Massey in the position of president of the National Liberal Association is expected during the course of the meeting.

For the rest it is understood that steps for the development of the association, the raising of necessary funds to build up a strong central organization in Ottawa and general matters of interest to the party are being discussed.

Resolution Unanimously Voted at Annual Meeting of Foothills Province Farmers Suggests Australian, U.S. and Argentine Delegations Attend Conference

Higher Price Level Declared Needed

"Such Measures of International Co-ordination As May Be Advisable" Are Advocated

Canadian Press Calgary, Nov. 25.—The Government of Canada is requested to convene a world wheat conference in a resolution approved at to-day's session of the Alberta Wheat Pool's annual meeting here. The delegates believe such a conference would lead to stabilized wheat prices and solve the present marketing problem.

The leading wheat exporting countries of the world would attend the proposed conference. They would be Canada, Australia, the United States, Argentina, which control 87 per cent of the world export wheat supply.

UNANIMOUSLY VOTED
The resolution, unanimously approved by the pool delegates, referred to the serious plight of the wheat farmers, due to the drastic drop in prices and the lack of market for their products. The delegates believed that only by co-operation between the four exporting countries could a solution of the problem of markets and low prices be found.

DISASTROUS PRICE LEVELS
The resolution reads as follows: "Whereas for the past two years the prices for our principal agricultural products, wheat, have continued at levels disastrous to the ability of agriculture to carry on, and equally disastrous to the industrial and community interests which depend on the purchasing power of agriculture; and whereas we believe an improvement in commodity prices is essential to economic recovery and, further, that wheat is the chief commodity to be considered in the matter of price:

"And whereas we believe much can be accomplished by conference of the government and producers of the chief exporting countries:

"Now therefore we request the Government of Canada to convene such a conference with a view to establishing such measures of international co-ordination as may be deemed necessary or advisable in the best interests of these countries."

MAN WHO SLEW SIX IS HELD

Police said Marcelino had told him: "I felt funny in the head." "I was held up Wednesday night by two colored men," officers quoted him as saying. "I was shot and killed."

He questioned his companion, Gualto, the confession said, but was told Gualto did not know where the money was.

"I then felt different to the way I usually feel," he said. "I felt funny in the head. I stabbed Pito. He was lying on the bed. I went over and hit him once."

Continuing his account of the trail of slaughter which the killing began, he related briefly his deeds until he thought he "stabbed a negro."

MEMORY FAILS
"But I didn't remember anything else," he added. "I feel better now." Gualto's nephew, Cristobal Bayano, was visiting his uncle when the middle-aged man was slain. After Gualto had denied knowledge of the whereabouts of Marcelino's money, the killer said nothing for a while.

"Not one word," Bayano related. "But he had that funny look. All of a sudden he pulled out his knife and stabbed my uncle to death."

"I have just sacrificed my life to die for my countrymen," he shrieked brandishing his two knives. "I have killed three men outside. See, here is my knife."

Seizing a leather coat of one of the patrons from a rack, he rushed out of the shop.

and police cars were hurried to the district. But the crazed Filipino was elusive.

As he ran in and out among pedestrians of into shops, he struck here and there with deadly accuracy. All of his victims were stabbed in or above the heart.

Most of his victims had been taken to hospital or the morgue before Patrolman William Reynolds saw him fleeing down an alley. Reynolds shot at him, but missed.

Attracted by the shot, Patrolman Gordon Jensen, off-duty and returning from a football game, leaped for the killer. Marcelino slashed at him with a knife, ripping the cloth from Jensen's sleeve.

With Patrolman Charles Seaver, Jensen finally cornered and captured the Filipino near the grocery store where Morris, one of the victims, lay dead on the floor.

The two seven-inch knives Marcelino used had been fashioned from native Moro bones.

LIST OF VICTIMS

Those killed were:

W. J. Morris, sixty, a grocery store proprietor.

Frank Johnson, sixty-five, a bystander, slain on the sidewalk.

Pito Gualto, Filipino, fifty.

Bernardino Bonita, Filipino, twenty-five.

William Gualto, Filipino, twenty-five.

William Tansdor, Filipino, twenty-eight, who died a few minutes after he had been rushed to a hospital.

In their flight to escape, several of the wounded were cut and slashed on their shoulders. Among them were Hans Shogren, fifty, wounded in the shoulder; Harry Simpson, forty-eight, a negro, also stabbed there; and Taji Maca, thirty-six, a Japanese.

The sight of blood, the nephew said, apparently crazed Marcelino with the lust to kill. He slashed Bayano in the shoulder, lunged at another man who came into the room and dashed from the hotel on his mission of death.

With a frenzied yell he ran into an adjacent barbershop.

"I have just sacrificed my life to die for my countrymen," he shrieked brandishing his two knives. "I have killed three men outside. See, here is my knife."

Seizing a leather coat of one of the patrons from a rack, he rushed out of the shop.

Elderly Couple Hide Cash in Dresser; Money Missing After Party

Jack Beaton, Port Alberni, Charged With Theft of $900

Special to The Times
Port Alberni, Nov. 25.—Jack Beaton is in the toils of the police on a charge of theft, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Anderson, Second Avenue, have found a dresser drawer is not a safe place to keep money than a bank.

Some time ago the elderly couple found an old bankbook showing $1,100 to their credit. The existence of the fund had been forgotten. They withdrew the money.

Last week a party was held at their home at which Beaton was a guest. Some days later a roll of $900, part of the money withdrawn from the bank, was missed from a dresser drawer.

Beaton was arrested on charges of theft of $900 and with being intoxicated while an interdict. He appeared before Magistrate Gordon Campbell yesterday and was remanded. The police are still searching for the missing $900.

Foundations of Japan will not be weakened by a temporary outlay of 1,000,000,000 yen ($200,000,000) or more which the army may require for an emergency.

The new budget as it is expected to be presented to Parliament on December 24 estimates revenue at 1,342,000,000 yen ($268,400,000). Financial experts gave the opinion to-day that the total bond issues for the 1933-34 fiscal year probably would exceed 1,000,000,000 yen, making the two-year's increase in the national debt exceed that involved in the Russo-Japanese War, which was 1,500,000,000 ($300,000,000).

Despite the prospective deficit, the Minister of Finance, Takahashi, refused to increase taxation, insisting on reliance solely on borrowing.

The budget for next year exceeds the present year's record expenditure which is estimated, will reach 1,945,000,000 yen ($389,000,000), requiring deficit covering bond issues amounting to 614,000,000 yen ($122,800,000) before the books are closed March 31, 1933.

FOR ARMED FORCES

The army appropriation for the next fiscal year is 448,000,000 yen ($89,600,000), and the navy appropriation 373,000,000 yen ($74,600,000). Total 821,000,000 yen ($164,200,000) for the fiscal year of 1933-34, the last normal year.

In that year the army appropriation was 384,000,000 yen ($76,800,000), and the navy 221,000,000 yen ($44,200,000). The combined army and navy appropriations include 183,000,000 yen ($36,600,000) for the fiscal year of 1933-34, as well as 237,000,000 yen ($47,400,000) for "replenishment of arms" of the fighting services.

But throughout the judgment—one of the lengthiest ever delivered by the highest tribunal in the Empire—rings criticism of the actions of Baron Shaugnessy in administering the estate, and especially his conduct with regard to Canadian Industrial Alcohol Ltd. "The Davis estate, estimated to have a value at one time of $50,000,000, had as its chief asset stock control of Canadian Industrial Alcohol."

Judges declare the question whether Lord Shaugnessy and Mr. Reaper should be removed as trustees—Lady Davis is the third trustee—is essentially one of Quebec law, but add they take a more serious view of the case than any judges who have so far considered it.

JUDICIAL DISCRETION
They decided the whole case called for judicial discretion in favor of the respondents. The reasons for this are that every imputation of fraud against the respondents has disappeared, that there is no risk of continuance or revival of any course of administration of the estate hitherto adopted but which was now shown to be irregular or unjustified.

"The real issue raises a question not of law but of fact," declares the judgment. The judges "are willing to accept the view that the respondents, when they were carrying out what they believed would have been the testator's policy, were especially when taking any benefits for themselves, going in no way beyond what they believed the testator would have at once conceded."

The finding describes Lord Shaugnessy's administration as an "attitude of abstention" in which Mr. Reaper acquiesced.

Trustee A. Hankin talked on financing the school.

A. L. Page thanked the speakers and teachers. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Urgency of Problem Voiced By Mr. King, Liberal Leader, and Mr. Irvine, U.F.A. But Their Motions Are Ruled Out; H. E. Spencer Tells of Farmers' Cost Difficulties

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Nov. 25.—Agricultural distress throughout Canada, but particularly on the prairies, was uppermost in the minds of the members of the Commons yesterday evening. Speaker after speaker from the west called attention to the sufferings of the farmers from low prices for their products.

The remedies suggested were varied. They included inflation of the dollar at least to the level of the British pound, lower tariffs and an acreage bonus to wheat growers.

During the debate two motions were offered, and both were ruled out on points of order.

In the afternoon, on a motion to go into supply, Mr. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, moved the following amendment on farm relief:

"Whereas Parliament has been in session since October 6 of the present year and is shortly to adjourn until January 30, 1933;

"And whereas, since Parliament assembled the government has not made any statement of policy with respect to the relief of existing agricultural conditions;

"And whereas, the position of agriculture in Canada has become increasingly deplorable and, unless relieved, will bring about a condition of distress hitherto unparalleled;

"This House is of the opinion the government should immediately announce what policy, if any, it has with respect to the relief of agricultural distress, and permit full consideration of the same before Parliament adjourns over the months of December and January."

The amendment was seconded by P. Casgrain, Liberal, Charlevoix-Saguenay.

VOTE ON RULING
Speaker Black ruled the amendment out of order and an appeal was taken from that decision.

On the division which followed, the Speaker's ruling was sustained by a vote of 85 to 51. All Conservatives present who were not paired voted in support of the ruling, while members of the Liberal, U.F.A., Progressive, Independent and Labor groups, not paired, voted solidly against.

FARM SOLD
J. L. Brown, Liberal-Progressive, Lisgar, Man., said the low prices farmers were receiving for their produce made it difficult for them to meet their debts. There were many farms being sold; and in place of farmers having to go off their farms because they could not meet their debts some steps should be taken for assistance to them in this direction.

IRVINE'S MOTION
Immediately after the vote on the Speaker's ruling, William Irvine, U.F.A., Westsask., moved another amendment as follows:

"Whereas, the prices for farm products now prevailing are the lowest on record and do not bring returns to the farmer sufficient to meet the cost of the current year's operations; and

"Whereas, farmers have in years past obligated themselves to pay large sums of money for goods and services and to repay loans advanced for the purchase of farm equipments and the carrying on of farming operations; and

"Whereas, the principal sums of such debts had a relation to prices the farmer was receiving for his products; and

"Whereas, such debts are being greatly increased by unpaid interest charges and through the depreciated values of their products by which alone debt can be paid;

"Therefore he resolved that in the opinion of this House, the government, as an emergency measure, should:

(a) Take such action as will lead to the writing off of all accumulated interest charges outstanding and to effect a substantial reduction in interest charges for the future; and

(b) Bring the Canadian dollar at least to that point where Canada will have a parity of exchange with her chief competitors in the British market; and

(c) Immediately consider the advisability of again paying a bonus on wheat, either on a bushelage or acreage basis; and

(d) That this House is further of the opinion that the government should:

(a) Take such action as will lead to the writing off of all accumulated interest charges outstanding and to effect a substantial reduction in interest charges for the future; and

(b) Bring the Canadian dollar at least to that point where Canada will have a parity of exchange with her chief competitors in the British market; and

(c) Immediately consider the advisability of again paying a bonus on wheat, either on a bushelage or acreage basis; and

(d) That this House is further of the opinion that the government should:

(a) Take such action as will lead to the writing off of all accumulated interest charges outstanding and to effect a substantial reduction in interest charges for the future; and

(b) Bring the Canadian dollar at least to that point where Canada will have a parity of exchange with her chief competitors in the British market; and

(c) Immediately consider the advisability of again paying a bonus on wheat, either on a bushelage or acreage basis; and

(d) That this House is further of the opinion that the government should:

(a) Take such action as will lead to the writing off of all accumulated interest charges outstanding and to effect a substantial reduction in interest charges for the future; and

(b) Bring the Canadian dollar at least to that point where Canada will have a parity of exchange with her chief competitors in the British market; and

(c) Immediately consider the advisability of again paying a bonus on wheat, either on a bushelage or acreage basis; and

(d) That this House is further of the opinion that the government should:

the opinion the government should create a marketing board competent to supervise and control the marketing of farm products."

FACING RUIN
Alfred Speakman, U.F.A., Red Deer, said ruin faced the farmers unless steps were taken as mentioned in the amendment. In wheat and other farm products farmers were receiving prices lower than "out of pocket" expenses.

I. D. Macdougall, Conservative, Inverness, N.S., raised a point of order. The subject matter of the amendment offered by Mr. Irvine was the same as a motion on the order paper in the name of Mr. Speakman. The Irvine amendment, he continued, was therefore out of order.

Speaker Black sustained the point of order. The Irvine amendment was out of order he ruled. Mr. Speakman might continue to discuss other matters only on the motion to go into supply.

CURRENCY CHANGE
Currency depreciation had brought certain advantages in the countries where it had taken place, said Mr. Speakman. It was no longer a dream. Consequently western members were justified in urging the government to put it into effect in this country in order to give Canadians some of the advantages possessed by others.

Mr. Speakman asserted when members of the Commons returned to their constituencies they would have to admit to the electorate that "nothing had been accomplished" in the way of dealing with Canada's domestic problems.

It is very regrettable the matter of agriculture was not placed before the House earlier, this session, said H. E. Spencer, U.F.A., Battle River. "The condition of this industry is so bad it has become the major problem of the day."

The government, he continued, had come to the assistance of manufacturing and other industries in Canada. It had loaned money to the Canadian Pacific Railway in order to permit that company to reopen its shops. Manufacturing industries had been safeguarded in the way of exchange duties. But the farmer had not been so protected. He had been called on to face falling prices, with debts that were incurred when times were good and farm prices high.

Mr. Spencer cited a number of commodities to indicate how farm product prices had fallen. Wheat prices were lower than at any time in the last 300 years. It took two fleeces of wool now to buy a pair of socks. The value of 1,000 pounds of wool was necessary to purchase a decent suit of clothes. Farmers on the prairies were having their telephones taken out because they could not pay for them. Feeling was so intense in the prairie provinces that mass meetings of farmers who came from long distances to attend were being held.

NANAIMO TOLD SCHOOLS' WORK

Ira Dilworth Pleads For Continued Advance in Education

Nanaimo, Nov. 25.—Ira Dilworth, principal of the Victoria High School, gave an inspirational address in St. John Hall last night as a part of the local programme for Education Week.

Education's most vehement denunciators, were people who knew nothing about it, he said. Referring to cynics of public opinion, such as "would not a boy be a better ditch digger if he did not have high school education?" Mr. Dilworth asked: "But would he?" adding "We need good ditch diggers, farmers and mechanics. We should not look upon work as menial or honorable."

He pleaded for more and still more education, asserting education to be a war to make democracy safe for humanity. "The little man," he said, "is our depression—not the forces of Nature. The bottom of the present depression is above the level of the prosperity of 1930 years ago," he said.

Mr. Dilworth said the duty of education to the state was to help the ordinary man to rid himself of shackles placed upon him by the "fixed mind" as he termed the trend of public opinion.

In concluding, Mr. Dilworth said education trains children to do their own thinking and to face difficulties and also to free man from superstition.

HOOPER ACTION ON DEBT HOLIDAY

French Government Informed U.S. President Has No Power to Grant Postponement of December 15 Payment

Paris, Nov. 25.—The United States executive has no power to grant a postponement of the $50,000,000 debt installment due from France December 15, the State Department of the United States informed this government in a note made public here this evening.

A statement attributed to Premier Edouard Herriot earlier to-day asserted a new period of negotiations with the United States on war debts was about to open.

The Premier was quoted in the newspaper Ere Nouvelle as declaring President Hoover's reply to the European debtors, advising them they were expected to pay debt installments in December, "involves in a formidable fashion the whole realm of international politics."

STUDIED IN BRITAIN
London, Nov. 25.—The cabinet gathered new data to-day for another note to Washington seeking postponement of war debt payments until the whole question can be discussed simultaneously by a cabinet committee.

was charged with the task of studying President Hoover's reply to the original British note asking extension of the moratorium of June, 1931.

Mr. Hoover said the debtors were expected to pay in December, when the next installments will be due in Washington.

There were few here who doubted Great Britain would pay if further representations should fail to bring an extension of the moratorium beyond December 15.

During the morning a copy of the full text of the United States note replying to the British war debts proposal was placed in the hands of each cabinet member for study over the week-end. There will be no cabinet meeting before Monday.

MANY EDITORIALS
Meantime the newspapers are full of editorials about the debts, some of them critical, some resigned.

Government representatives said all this discussion in the papers was entirely beside the point, for the cabinet itself had not decided what would be best to do.

No Hearing For G.T.R. Shareholders

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Nov. 25.—The railway committee of the Senate, studying the transportation bill, based on the Duff report, took the view yesterday no advantage could come from hearing the Grand Trunk shareholders who are protesting against the bill. Senator Arthur Meighen, government party leader, explained that years ago when the Grand Trunk management came to the government and asked the system be taken over, it was decided a board of arbitration should fix the value of the Grand Trunk common and preferred shares. That board found they had no value and the government and the railway company proceeded on the assumption that finding was binding. Certain minority shareholders objected. They had not started legal proceedings to prove their claims. "The die was cast years ago," Senator Meighen said, "as far as the government or this Parliament is concerned. We could do nothing. If they have any rights it must be in the matter of damages to be decided by the courts not by Parliament."

It requires nearly 1,600 pounds of water to produce one pound of alfalfa, and over 1,100 pounds to produce one pound of white sweet clover.

MASSACRE IN MANCHURIA

Chinese Foreign Office Says Japanese Troops Killed 2,700 Peasants

Associated Press
Shanghai, Nov. 25.—A Chinese Foreign Office communique published here to-day charged that 2,700 Chinese peasants were massacred recently in Northern Manchuria by Japanese troops.

The mass killing was done by use of machine guns, the communique said. Inhabitants of the villages of Ping Ting San, Chien Chin Pae and Li Tse Kou, ten to sixteen miles northeast of Fushun, were assembled in a ditch west of Ping Ting San while Japanese soldiers searched the villages for Chinese volunteers, the announcement said. It was explained the villagers were suspected of co-operating with and harboring volunteers.

According to the Chinese Foreign Office, the Japanese promised a reward if the villagers were found to be innocent and then placed more than ten machine guns seventy yards from the assembly, ordering all the captives to kneel with their backs to the guns. Some of the villagers realized the fate in store for them, the communique continued, and commenced to run, whereupon the machine gunners opened fire on the stampeding mass of screaming men, women and children.

"Infants, children and others not killed by bullets were bayoneted," the statement said.

The Japanese, the Foreign Office declared, piled up the corpses, covered them with oil-soaked fuel and burned them.

Subsequently, according to the communique, the farms of the villagers were allotted to Japanese nationals.

INTIMIDATION IN VANCOUVER

Coercion of Witnesses By Friends of Men on Trial Charged By Police

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 25.—Intimidation similar to that practiced by criminals of the United States is being tried in Vancouver, assert police.

In a number of recent cases, where suspected bandits were arrested and faced trial, it is reported witnesses were intimidated by threats of violence made by friends and companions of the accused. These threats resulted in the disappearance of persons whose evidence was necessary to obtain convictions.

In other cases witnesses who at first talked freely to officers suddenly became silent when called to the witness stand in court, failed to repeat statements first made or to identify accused persons.

Witnesses called to police identification line-ups in the hope of picking out alleged bandits have been threatened, officials declare.

ACTION PREVENTED
Threats which have intimidated witnesses from giving evidence in these cases also prevent the officials from taking action against those making the threats.

Police declare efforts will be made to keep the identity of witnesses from accused persons and their friends until such time as cases are called for trial. Changes may be made in the identification line-up system further to protect such witnesses from having their own identity disclosed to those who would threaten or intimidate them.

Authorities declare that in a number of recent instances criminals were freed in court through the failure of intimidated witnesses to appear or give full and complete evidence.

BIGGER WEEKLY PAY FOR MINERS

Associated Press
Idaho, Nov. 25.—Even though their wages were ordered reduced to-day, miners working at the four plants of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining and Concentrating Companies here will get a fatter pay envelope each, effective December 1.

Notices posted at the plants this morning informed the miners—their wages would be cut 50 cents a day, but that they would be given five days work a week instead of four.

Under the new scale, miners will be paid $4.25 a day, muckers $3.75, timbermen $4.75 and common outside labor $3.50.

The Federal Mining Company recently resumed a twelve-day-a-month operating schedule with a 50-cent per day reduction.

ALASKAN MINING OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 25.—The outlook for the Alaskan mining industry next year was described as "most encouraging" by Governor George A. Parks today in his annual report to U.S. Secretary of the Interior R. H. Wilbur.

"Reports from all districts indicate," he said, "that there are more prospects in the field than there have been for years. Favorable predictions for next year are further justified by the substantial expansion of operations in and production from gold-lode properties throughout the territory.

Returns from Alaska's major industry, fishing, were reported to be less both in quantity and in value than the previous year, but the decline was attributed to market conditions and not to lack of supply.

Former Millionaire In Prison Hospital

Associated Press
San Quentin, Cal., Nov. 25.—James A. Talbot, former board chairman of the Richfield Oil Company, who entered San Quentin prison Wednesday on a two-to-twenty-year grand theft sentence, was sent to the prison hospital to-day.

Warden James Holohan said he desired the fifty-two-year-old one-time millionaire oil magnate, who was convicted of appropriating Richfield funds to his own use, be given a physical examination.

DICTATOR IS SHAW'S HOPE

Tells Fabians Substitution of Roosevelt For Hoover 'Won't Make Any Difference'

London Audience Is Told Modern Elections Are Just Stampedes

Associated Press
London, Nov. 25.—George Bernard Shaw, making his annual appearance before his beloved Fabian Society, yesterday evening preached revolution, remarked that nothing was likely to come of his preaching, and declared the substitution of "Mr. Roosevelt for Mr. Hoover" would make any difference to anybody.

His address was "In praise of Guy Fawkes" of Gunpowder Plot fame.

"For forty-eight years I have been making public speeches and I have not produced the slightest effect," Mr. Shaw said. "I have solved all the world's problems time and time again and still they go on being unsolvable."

HEAR MORE OF MOSLEY
This did not prevent him from saluting them, he declared, had come to be just one stampede after another.

The most magnificent stampede of all was the American Presidential election substituting Mr. Roosevelt for Mr. Hoover, which won't make any difference to anybody," he said.

Mr. Shaw thought it was to be regretted that Guy Fawkes did not blow up Parliament, for he probably wanted the government of the day to do something "which is impossible as Parliament is only an engine of public speaking."

Public speaking ought to be made a criminal offense, he declared, had come to be just one stampede after another.

RETURN TO SIMPLICITY
"I am an old man with distinct symptoms of second childhood," he said, urging a return to the simplicity of socialism as he had desired it in his "new top long career."

The basis of this creed, he said, was redistribution of wealth, redistribution of leisure, and putting an end to the "brigandage" of private capital.

"Police were needed to control the crowds that tried to enter the hall to hear him."

NO HOLIDAY FOR THIS MERCHANT

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—Frank Rudolf, poultry merchant, kept his place open for business yesterday.

Wednesday evening, as he was about to close shop, he smiled broadly as he counted some $200 in the till. Looking at the one turkey and half a dozen hens left in the coop, he decided to keep up over Thanksgiving Day.

"Another customer," he whispered to himself as two men came in. They presented pistols and took his $200.

So minus his money and his smiles, he opened for business yesterday.

Babson Man Sees Business Revival

Canadian Press
Montreal, Nov. 25.—"A business revival is actually in the making. The present low water mark of business activity cannot long endure. You will be well on the road to recovery before the great mass of people realize it," was the message brought to Canadian businessmen yesterday by Ralph B. Wilson, vice-president of the Babson statistical organization.

Canadian business has struck bottom, Mr. Wilson said, pointing to a dozen or so charts of different phases in Canadian businesses.

He particularly emphasized the activity in such barometers as car loadings, electric power, newspaper production, gold mining, a large wheat crop, a slight increase in wholesale commodity prices and a favorable balance of trade.

TRADE BILLS ARE APPROVED

Senate Gives Ottawa Agreements Third Reading; Bills Soon to Be Signed

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Nov. 25.—It took the Commons six weeks to approve the trade treaties negotiated at the Imperial Economic Conference last summer, but the Senate passed them in one day. To-day all that remained to be done to make the trade pact with the United Kingdom, the Irish Free State, South Africa and Southern Rhodesia binding on Canada was the formal signing of the ratifying bills by the Governor-General.

After a brief debate the Upper Chamber yesterday placed the stamp of approval on all four treaties. During the discussion Senator Dandurand, Senator Robert Forke, Liberal-Progressive, Manitoba, and Senator H. H. Horsey, Liberal, Ontario, spoke in criticism of the bills, after which Senator Dandurand, Liberal leader in the Senate, announced that subject to the reservations already voiced, no opposition would be offered. The bills were vigorously defended by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, government party leader.

PEDDLAR HEARS OF INHERITANCE

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—Richard W. Pauley wandered into the Midnight Mission here yesterday for a free Thanksgiving Day dinner, and found himself three months too late to claim an English inheritance. He needs it, too, for he is sixty-one years old, a shoeing peddler and an invalid.

If Mrs. Mary Covey, executive secretary of the mission, who were inquiring for Pauley three months ago, he may yet get the inheritance. But she was unable to recall them yesterday.

"We couldn't find Pauley when the lawyers asked about him," she said. "It seems a brother died in London and left him a small fortune."

Pauley said that would be his brother Edwin.

"I heard he made a lot of money from a new gasoline process," he explained, "I was born in Canada, and sued to support a wife and four children. But Pauley three months ago, he may yet get the inheritance. But she was unable to recall them yesterday."

He finished his dinner, carefully wrote the address of the room, and left the mission, remarking he hoped they would find those lawyers soon.

Oats and barley were successfully matured this year at Alaskan near the south of the Mackenzie River.

SENATE IS TOLD OF CLAUSES Desired By Maritime Provinces

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Nov. 25.—The people of the Maritime Provinces have some apprehensions as to the future if the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation is carried out in its entirety, according to statements made to the senate committee studying railway legislation.

Col. E. C. Pinney, president of the Halifax Harbor Commission, appeared before the committee yesterday, and presented a brief on behalf of the Government of Nova Scotia, the corporation of the City of Halifax and the Halifax Board of Trade.

Suggested amendments he felt would safeguard the interests of the Maritime Provinces follow:

Increases the proposed board of trustees of the Canadian National Railways to five men so the Maritime Provinces group might have a representative.

Specific provision in the act to direct that the trustees shall be guided at all times by the east-and-west transportation policy and fullest possible use of Canadian facilities.

APPEAL PROVISION
That there shall be an appeal from the decisions of the arbitral tribunals on questions of law the same as on questions of jurisdiction.

That if the Canadian National proposes to abandon any of its facilities or curtail service on its own initiative and without reference to the Canadian Pacific, it may do so only with the sanction of the arbitral tribunal after a public hearing.

That the power of Parliament to control the actions of the Canadian National trustees be retained to a greater degree than contemplated in section 10, and that the act shall be subject to all federal statutory enactments dealing with freight rates.

WAR DEBTS AND THE TARIFF TIED TOGETHER

While further negotiations between London and Washington and between Paris and Washington may somewhat alter the war debt situation, at this stage of the controversy it would appear that both Great Britain and France will meet their payments to the United States when they fall due on December 15. If this should turn out to be the case, and if neither the present nor the next Congress shall decide to reopen the discussion, it is interesting to speculate upon the economic effect continuance of payments may have on the nations involved and the world generally.

Writing in The Christian Science Monitor last Saturday, Mr. H. B. Elliston says "a seer is necessary to picture all that would happen" if the debtor governments, rather than risk a default with all its implications and consequences, elected to continue their payments. One of the chief results of which he is certain would be another plunge downward in the dollar-sterling exchange. Proof of this is not far to seek. Mr. Elliston points out that the installment due next month "wears to the debtors a magnitude altogether out of relation to its face value in dollars." For example, the British payment amounts to $95,500,000, or, at the present rate of exchange, $30,000,000. In other words, if the pound sterling were at par in New York, the payment in sterling would be approximately $19,100,000.

In paying dollars, Britain must do one of three things: 1. Earn dollars. 2. Remit gold. 3. Sell pounds for dollars. With this in mind, Mr. Elliston asks how much in dollars is Great Britain earning at the present time. He knows, of course, that like every other country, Britain's receipts from foreign trade and from the supply of services to foreigners, such as space in British ships, have fallen drastically. The London Economist, incidentally, notes that for the last six months, Great Britain bought from the United States goods worth nearly $44,000,000. Against this import Britain sold to the United States goods worth $8,750,000, leaving a deficit to be paid for in other ways of $35,000,000. The relationship of this large deficit to the $30,000,000 debt installment due on December 15 is explained by Mr. Elliston in this way:

Some dent in this deficit is made by indirect trading. That is, Britain sells goods to a third country, which in turn sells goods to the United States and turns over the dollars it receives to Great Britain. Or it makes up part of the difference in the sale of services. There are no statistics available for either item, but it is common knowledge that all forms of international economic activity have declined, and the conclusion must be reached that in order to pay $30,000,000 in debt installment plus $35,000,000 in the direct trade deficit, current income would not be sufficient.

This means that Britain would have to dip into the government equivalent of the little black bag first, as to gold. Payment of the debt installment alone in this manner would involve a drain of roughly one-sixth of the total metal in the Bank of England's vaults. But the United States does not want gold. It has so much nowadays that its surplus is non-revenue-earning. Every shipment, in fact, is worse than an idle addition to an idle store. It is a positive debit item. In that it is equivalent to the depreciation of foreign ability to buy American goods.

Because of the prospect of Britain returning to the gold standard, Mr. Elliston does not think Britain will part with her gold, and he argues that the United States would like to see Britain use the metal for that purpose, since selling pounds for dollars is the method which depresses exchange. Nor does he think that recent purchases of dollars is at an end; and if it is not the pound will drop again. Indeed the pound in London to-day broke to $3.22, or one cent less than the minimum reached after the country went off the gold standard. There is talk that we shall see a three-dollar, or even a two-dollar, pound.

On the point of further drops in the value of the pound, Mr. Elliston says the question has no longer merely a technical interest, and he proceeds: "It affects every cotton planter and every wheat farmer. It affects every person who is concerned with the price of commodities entering the world market. For the experience of the past year of fluctuating exchanges shows that any decline in sterling is reflected in a decline in the commodities in which either British buying or British trading plays a part."

No matter from what standpoint the question of war debts is discussed it can not be treated as a problem standing alone. It is bound up with the present system of world tariffs which have strangled trade, increased unemployment, and generally sent all countries into the most serious economic decline in many years. Those who believe in the gospel of "letting things take their course" might well note the view of Mr. Thomas Lamont, the well-known New York banker, that economic thinking which entertains the notion that "fixed and static dogmas can necessarily stand unchanged in a changing world" is coming to be recognized as obsolete.

In a speech the other day, Mr. Lamont called for the rebuilding of the capitalist system in conformity with modern requirements, and his reference to the inroads which have been made into what he calls the capitalist "house" he said the supreme folly had been reached in the gradation from super-protectionism to economic nationalism. He pointed out that a nation can base its international policy on self-containment only if no debts are owing to it. "But the United States, for example, is a creditor to the extent of about $25,000,000,000, some $10,000,000,000 of which is in war obligations. But the simple logic that only by allowing freer ingress into American markets can these debts properly be paid has still to be learned." So are debts and the tariff interwoven.

TWO FLEECES OF WOOL FOR A PAIR OF SOCKS

Although the United Farmers failed to obtain the approval of the Speaker for their motions dealing with agricultural relief, the House of Commons yesterday heard some graphic details about the plight of those who till the soil and raise stock. Mr. H. E. Spencer, United Farmer member for Battle River, said it took two fleeces of wool to buy a pair of socks and 1,000 pounds of wool to purchase a decent suit of clothes, while wheat prices were the lowest in 300 years.

It would be interesting to hear from Mr. Spencer what value he would place on the business of "bringing up" two sheep to the point of stature at which they produce merchantable wool, and any other incidental expense which would have to be borne, so that the two fleeces could be traded for a pair of socks.

Let us see how an average pair of imported socks is treated at the customs counter when it comes into this country. First of all there is a duty of twenty-seven and one-half per cent, less ten per cent, or say 2.7, six and one-half cents special tax, six per cent sales tax, three per cent excise tax, and from between five and ten per cent dumping duty. Hence, we get some idea of what the farmer with his low prices is up against, and this applies in a less drastic form to all who wear socks.

THE SMALLEST COIN WILL BE WELCOMED

The Times bespeaks a generous response to to-morrow's appeal for funds for the Women's Workroom. In the words of the general convenor for the tag day, it is hoped that "those who are fortunate enough to have a job, or other means, at the present time may take advantage of the opportunity to put even the smallest piece of silver in the box and so help some woman who is not so fortunate to get a job, too. Since the opening of the workroom on October 5, 1931, the records of the room show the number of days' work given to women to be well over 15,000. Only the generosity of the Victoria public, and the whole-hearted efforts of those responsible for operating the workroom, have made this possible." This fine work deserves hearty support.

A NEEDLESS SACRIFICE

A few days ago the French government paid honor to the last three French soldiers to die in the war; three men who were killed just one minute before the bugles sounded the "cease firing" call at 11 a.m. on November 11, 1918.

It is a melancholy sort of fame that those three possum won; and at this date, looking back and reflecting that all the armies on the western front suffered losses on that final morning of conflict, one wonders why any of those deaths were necessary.

All the generals knew, when November 11 dawned, that hostilities would cease in a few hours. What earthly sense was there in firing another gun? What shadow of a right did any general have to sacrifice one more life? To all intents and purposes the war was over. It is a little hard to forgive the military obtuseness that called for killing on the morning of Armistice Day.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE NEW DEAL

The Toronto Star

What the people of the United States want is something that is not, and should not be, considered foreign or revolutionary at all—what they want is a scale of prosperity something like that to which they have been accustomed. They want three meals a day, clothing and shelter from the inclemencies of the weather. These they are not getting. The voting in the presidential election shows that their confidence in the country and its system of government is unshaken. All that has been shaken is their faith in those who have been in charge.

AUSTRALIAN RECOVERY

The Regina Leader-Post

Australia, whose economic position a few months ago was generally regarded as much more serious than that of Canada, appears to be making a surprisingly rapid return toward recovery. . . . Canada has been operating differently from Australia. We have attempted to stay on the gold standard. We have not been able to borrow money at as low a rate as that obtained by one of the Australian states, and we have made little progress in getting our burden of interest and debts reduced. Business and trade in Australia are coming to life as a result of the policies put into operation. This does not appear to be happening in Canada. Have we been following the wrong path?

NO TIME FOR BRAGGARTS

The Baltimore Sun

The news that the directors of the Bank of England have decided to recommend Mr. Montagu Norman for another term as its governor will probably surprise many Americans who read the dispatches on his recent speech at the bankers' dinner in London. However, the directors of Governor Norman's bank apparently take the view that strength may be added to leadership by a willingness to admit in public a lack of omniscience. They are not fatally shocked by Mr. Norman's humble confession that there is much about world finance at present that he does not understand. If an attitude of humility on the part of financial leaders could be generally validated, we should probably get ahead faster toward relief of our financial woes. Certainly, we could not do much worse than we have under leadership obedient to the convention that concessions of doubt and ignorance is concession of weakness.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

A real revolution is proclaimed on our way—the Blossom is brilliant on our hill—Mr. Beak is sceptical—Mrs. Glumby is personal—Mr. Pudbury is thirsty—and we resolve to put the world on its feet again.

By H. R. W.

BLOSSOM UNFOLDS

ONCE MORE I have got ahead of the newspapers with news of first magnitude. I cannot conceive, really, that such a great movement as has started out our way can be unknown to the newspapers altogether. I suspect they are suppressing it. I propose to right this gross injustice. I propose to proclaim to the world the stirring doctrine of this new revolution. Mind you, as Colonel Blossom admits himself, the movement is only in its preliminary stages. The revolution is not complete. Our present system of society still endures. But not for long, by gad, says the Colonel, not for long. Before long you will all be caught up in the cyclone of the Blossom Movement, and except we know not where, for the Blossom Movement hasn't had time yet to decide where it is going or just how it is going to get there. These, as the Colonel properly observes, are details. The big thing is that we are under way.

WE GOT under way at a mass meeting up at Colonel Blossom's last night. For a long time we have been seething with discontent out here. We have been disgusted with all parties and all forms of government, and our long smoldering resentment suddenly burst into flame when the new bridge rules were announced in New York. This was too much for the Colonel. He called a meeting to launch an entirely new party, and yet not a party exactly, but anyway, some kind of a group which would do away with all parties and groups, and bring the world back to sanity, by gad.

ALARMING INTELLIGENCE

THE BLOSSOM Movement got off to a brilliant start up at the Colonel's house last night. The Colonel himself presided, and outlined in erudite fashion the problems immediately facing the world. He had studied the whole situation from beginning to end (since he read the new bridge rules two days ago), and while he did not wish to be considered an alarmist, he wanted to warn his friends that things were not good, by gad, they weren't what they used to be, not when he was a young man. He would not say that he was a great economist, but he hoped he was intelligent. (Mr. Beak hoped so also in a loud whisper, but didn't seem very sure.) The Colonel had gone into the question of tariffs and gold reserves and currency and what-not, but he never did believe much in that sort of thing. In his opinion, said the Colonel, the trouble was that too many people had too little money. And he explained lucidly how, when a man has no money, he cannot buy goods, and when he cannot buy goods the factories cannot operate. And there was the cause of the whole beastly depression. (Mr. Beak wondered sourly how the Colonel had found that out.)

WE'LL THE Colonel was aware that he might be considered too radical in this view, but he intended to speak out regardless of the consequences. What we must have was a complete change, an upheaval, a revolution. We must get back, in short, to where we were in the old days. To achieve this result, the Colonel was ready to throw overboard all his old prejudices, all his former opinions and traditions. He proposed a new "revolutionary movement" of the whole people, and he would support any government which combined all the people, provided there were no dashed Liberals, Socialists, Communists, or any of those radical blighters in it.

DANGEROUS WORDS

HE WAS aware, of course, that he was going pretty far and so forth, but this was not to hesitate. Were he might be considered too radical in this view, but he intended to speak out regardless of the consequences. What we must have was a complete change, an upheaval, a revolution. We must get back, in short, to where we were in the old days. To achieve this result, the Colonel was ready to throw overboard all his old prejudices, all his former opinions and traditions. He proposed a new "revolutionary movement" of the whole people, and he would support any government which combined all the people, provided there were no dashed Liberals, Socialists, Communists, or any of those radical blighters in it.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

Angela, darling, wouldn't you like to attend the movies this evening with Junior?

we mice or men? Were we worms that we had no turning? (Mr. Beak wondered.) What of our glorious past? What of our ancestors' fight for freedom? What of Magna Carta, by gad? "What about the high price of chicken feed?" cried Mr. Beak, who is a poultryman.

This launched a general discussion of policy for the new Movement. Mr. Whiffleton advanced the opinion that the first step out of the depression would be to get our road fixed. Mrs. Glumby asked why Premier Bennett needed fifteen rooms in the Chateau Laurier, and him a bachelor? "It's $6 a ton on the prairies and $38 'ere," said Mr. Beak.

"There's holes in it almost to the hub of yer wheel," said Mr. Whiffleton. "The whole trouble," said Mr. Pudbury profoundly, "is that we didn't march to Berlin when we had the chance."

"What does he do with the other fourteen?" asked Mrs. Glumby. "I was selling at 16 cents a dozen last summer," said Mr. Beak. "Well, if you ask me," said Colonel Blossom, though no one had asked him, "the base of the whole trouble is that the beastly Yankees insist on the payment of war debts."

"What do you expect in a country run by two bachelors, Bennett and King?" asked Mrs. Glumby.

PRACTICAL POLITICS

IT WAS realized then, however, that as Colonel Blossom said, we must get down to brass tacks and headwork and all that sort of thing. If we were going to abolish political parties we must organize a strong party to abolish them. With this we all agreed. And Mr. Pudbury added very soundly that when we had gained office we must build up such a strong party organization that there would be no chance for any parties at all. In this way, he said, we should achieve complete non-partisanship. And reduce feed prices, said Mr. Beak. And get our road fixed, said Mr. Whiffleton. No bachelors, said Mrs. Glumby.

THE NAME of our new party was the first difficulty. Mr. Beak suggested the Revolutionary Party, but Colonel Blossom said this sounded like equality and democracy and all that sort of dangerous rot. Revolutionary Party was going too slow, said Mr. Beak. This was going too slow. Besides, there was so much argument in town about the pronunciation of Revolutionary, what with Dean Quinton saying one thing and other people another, we should only divide our cause with such a name. He suggested the Radical Party. Well, Colonel Blossom would agree if it were called the Radical Conservative Party, or, better still, The Loyal Radical Conservative Party.

SOUND IDEAS

BETTER put in Liberal too—have 'em all," jeered Mr. Whiffleton, who is a confirmed Grit. "Liberal, eh?" blazed Mr. Pudbury, who has always been a strong Conservative. "Who built the South Okanagan irrigation scheme, eh?" "Who put on the 1 per cent tax?" sneered Mr. Whiffleton.

"Aw, who killed Cock Robin?" asked Mr. Beak. "I say now," interrupted the Colonel, "I hope we're all Britishers together."

"I never trusted bachelors," said Mrs. Glumby, looking hard at the Colonel, who has never married. "Yus," said Mr. Pudbury. "I name no names, but it looks to me as if one gent was trying to hog this here meeting."

"Oh, I say," said the Colonel, "we must have harmony. 'Armony, eh?' And feed prices where they are," said Mr. Beak. "They're all the same when they get over fifty," said Mrs. Glumby.

"He's a Tory at heart," whispered Mr. Whiffleton. "We must be calm," said the Colonel. "In these times a man must use his head. Why, a man has got to have a strong brain not to go crazy altogether in these times, you know."

"Oh, you're probably appier the way you are," said Mr. Beak. "Oh, I say," said the Colonel. "When they get over fifty," said Mrs. Glumby.

"When do we eat?" asked Mr. Pudbury, and it was resolved that the meeting do now adjourn to sample the Colonel's latest blackberry wine and

WOMAN'S WORKROOM

To the Editor:—On Saturday the committee of the Women's Workroom will have a band of taggers on the streets with the hope that those who are fortunate enough to have a "job" or other means at the present time may take advantage of the opportunity to put even the smallest piece of silver in the box and so help some woman who is not so fortunate to get a "job," too. Since the opening of the Workroom on October 5, 1931, the records of the room show the number of days' work given to needy women to be well over 15,000. Only the generosity of the Victoria public and the wholehearted efforts of those responsible for operating the Workroom have made this possible. In order to carry on the Workroom the support of the public is absolutely necessary. Ten cents from all those who have a "job" would make a wonderful "tag." Headquarters for the tag will be 1218 Government Street.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Strong winds or gales from the east and south, unsettled with rain.

Winnipeg, November 25.—Four hundred-cow wheat is being shipped on Saturday by the C.P.R. and forwarded to terminal points. The amount of wheat which is being shipped by the company daily is largely in excess of the amount marketed. This comprises one of the largest day's shipping of the year.

The most important evidence given at this morning's session of the investigation which is being made into the collision of the steamship Chalmers and Tartar, was that of John Hislop Alexander, assistant superintendent of the C.P.R. coast service engineering department. Mr. Alexander was called by Mr. Bodwell, on behalf of the Chalmers' officers, to testify as an expert upon the speeds of the two vessels at the time of the collision as shown by the evidence offered.

Word has been received that D. B. McConnon has been appointed assistant receiver-general in this city. He succeeds the late J. H. MacLaughlin.

The annual schedule meeting of the Vancouver Island Football Association was held at Ladysmith on Saturday evening last. J. G. Brown, the president, was in the chair, and in the absence of E. M. Whyte, the secretary-treasurer, J. Adam, Ladysmith, was appointed proxy. Entries for this season's competition were received as follows: Seniors, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, J.B.A. (Victoria), and Y.M.C.A. (Victoria); Intermediates, Victoria West (Victoria); Y.M.C.A. (Victoria), Wanders (Nanaimo) and Ladysmith; Juniors, North Ward (Victoria), Ladysmith and Nanaimo.

Many Attractions Planned For Big Fair At Armories

Well-known Women to Be Stall-holders at Mammoth Bazaar to Aid Women's Workroom on Saturday, December 3; "Jitney" Dances, Exhibition Dances and Badminton Arranged

Many well-known women are acting as stall-holders and arranging novel attractions for the mammoth fair which is to be staged at the Armories on Saturday afternoon and evening, December 3, in aid of the funds of the Women's Workroom. Mrs. Hermann Robertson is acting as general convenor, and Miss Inez Ker and a large committee will have charge of the decorations which are to be on an unusually elaborate scale and will transform the utilitarian aspect of the huge building into a carnival setting.

Among the interesting features will be the "Ladies of the Thousand Pockets," who will have really beautiful prizes hidden in their voluminous garments. Some lucky buyer may draw anything from a needle case to a lovely doll, or who knows—a motor car? Gloria Wilson and Phyllis Pooley will have these treasures hidden in their dresses and Mrs. C. E. Wilson and F. W. Hartley will be in charge.

The Native Daughters of B.C. will have the home-cooking stall, in charge of Mrs. T. P. Waters, and many dainties will be available, from newly-baked loaves to cakes and jellies of all kinds. Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Driscoll will have all kinds of cut flowers, plants, bulbs and lily of the valley pipe for sale, and anticipate a very lively business.

LOVELY DOLL'S HOUSE.
Beautiful and fascinating is the doll's house offered by Mrs. Lennox Irving at her novelty stall. The doll's house is fully furnished and complete in every detail. Lucky is the "little girl" who wins this magnificent home for her dolls. Mrs. R. H. B. Ker, Mrs. Sutherland Brown and Mrs. J. Rithet are arranging this stall.

Mrs. W. Luney, in charge of the candy, promises all kinds of home-made candies, chocolates, divinity fudges, caramels and a specially large box of all kinds of chocolates will be a real drawing card. Mrs. Luney, dispose of these tempting sweets. Tea will be served from 3.30 by Mesdames Phethean and Guy Sheppard, for which generous donors have already promised.

"JITNEY" DANCE.
The dancing will be an outstanding attraction for both old and young, as it will run all afternoon and evening and for a small sum everyone can have at least an hour's fun. Exhibition Dances will be given in the evening and anyone wishing to enter may do so by applying to Mrs. L. A. Genge or Mrs. McCannan not later than December 1. There will be a market exhibition, five hundred and twenty in the afternoon pretty turns by children will be introduced and this promises to be particularly attractive.

Other attractions will include the exhibition of badminton, which is under the direction of Col. A. V. Tremaigne. The hot dog stand, which will be absolutely true to detail, will be in charge of Mrs. Despard Twigg and Mrs. Cudemore, who will be really "doggie."

A card party was held on Monday evening in Luxton Hall, under the auspices of the Luxton Hall committee and the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's Institute. Eight tables of five hundred and twenty in the afternoon pretty turns by children will be introduced and this promises to be particularly attractive.

President's Official Visit.—Sister Margaret McDonald, president, Rebekah Lodge No. 1 on Tuesday evening. She was escorted by Grand Lodge officers and the district deputy president, who were introduced by Marion Taylor, deputy grand marshal. A presentation was made to Sister McDonald by Sister Ada L. Kirk, from the degree staff, also a beautiful basket of flowers from Colfax Lodge. At the close of the meeting dainty refreshments were served in the banquet hall and a social hour enjoyed.

Lake Hill W.L.—Members of Lake Hill Women's Institute held a very successful wool bee on Thursday, when two double-size wool quilts were completed and a single one commenced. Another wool bee will be held on Tuesday, commencing at 10 o'clock. A good attendance of members is requested.

CHAPTER PLANS YULETIDE WORK

Municipal I.O.D.E. to Distribute Christmas Hampers to Needy Ex-Service Men

Asked to Give Milk For Children in Human Interest Bonds

Plans for Christmas work were made at the monthly meeting of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., held yesterday evening at the headquarters, Union Building.

Mrs. L. A. Genge, the regent, presiding. Mrs. George Miles was again appointed convenor of the Christmas hampers, which will be distributed to the families of needy ex-service men, and for which a shower will be held in the rooms on December 20 from 10 till 4 o'clock. Donations of groceries, provisions, fruit, clothing, toys or other gifts will be most gratefully welcomed. The chapter will work with the Central Exchange, in order to ensure that no family is overlooked, and the hampers will be packed on December 23.

Mrs. Hugo Beaven appealed to the members to assist in the providing of Christmas cheer for the patients of the ex-service men's wards at the Jubilee Hospital, and the sum of $10 was voted to this purpose.

Mrs. A. C. Capps also reminded the members of the invaluable work which the Boy Scouts are doing by collecting and repairing discarded toys to be distributed to poor children of the city at Christmas, and asked that any such donations be left at the store on Government Street next Wilson's, the clothiers.

Col. T. B. Monk spoke to the members on the subject of the Human Interest Bonds.

CATHOLIC WOMEN BUSY

The December meeting of the Victoria Subdivision Catholic Women's League held yesterday evening in the library of the Bishop's Palace was presided over by Mrs. A. Grant, in the absence of Mrs. McManus, president, and plans for the forthcoming three days bazaar to be held on December 1, 2 and 3, in the former St. Ann's kindergarten, View and Blanshard streets, were finally discussed. This bazaar is held annually and the proceeds devoted to the payment of civil taxes, and this year's effort promises to be as successful, as those of the past.

Reports of the secretary, Mrs. O'Connell, and of the treasurer, Mrs. Gavin, were heard with interest, and a large number of letters were read by Mrs. O'Connell, corresponding secretary, amongst them a letter of thanks from Miss M. A. Wigley, acknowledging the subdivision's gift to the women's workroom, and paying a tribute to the efficient manner in which Mrs. McManus as convener of tag days for the league had helped this organization.

Hospital visiting was reported by

Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Kyle, for St. Joseph's Hospital, and by Mrs. McLennan and Mrs. H. Caplan for the Jubilee. New visitors volunteering for the month of December were Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Kyle for St. Joseph's and Mrs. McLennan and Mrs. Penner for the Jubilee. A special allowance was voted the visitors for Christmas cheer. A donation, for the aged ladies' home was voted to Miss E. O'Brien, representative of the league on the board.

Miss H. O'Brien on social service made an appeal for clothing which is greatly needed, and told of relief work in the outlying district and of the kind co-operation of St. Vincent de Paul Society in many cases of need. The annual turkey drive was announced for December 15 in the kindergarten building, with turkeys and chickens for prizes in the bridge and five hundred to be played. The proceeds will be used for the purchase of Christmas hampers, and the evening will be under the general convener'ship of Mrs. McLennan, assisted by Mrs. Morry, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. McLennan, Mrs. Hourigan, Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Gavin.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake up your Liver Bile
—No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour out pure bile into your bowels, every day. Without that bile, trouble starts. Poor digestion. Slow elimination. Poisons in the body. General weakness. How can you expect to clear up a situation like this completely with mere bow-moving salts, oil, mineral water, laxative, candy or shaving gum, or roughage? They don't wake up your liver.

You need Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Safe. Quick and sure results. Ask them by name. Refuse substitutes. 35c at all druggists.

OLD BOOK HIDES FAMILY SECRET

Canadians' Claim to Earl-dom's Fortune Hinges on Defaced Leaves

Toronto Banker Claimant Tried For Ten Years Without Success

Canadian Press
Toronto, Nov. 25.—An ancient book in the little English Church at Titterton, Herefordshire, appeared to-day to hold within its stained and illegible pages a secret which might enable five persons, four of them Canadians, to claim the estate of the Earl of Oxford and Mortimer.

Chances that the secret will ever be wrested from those defaced leaves are practically nil, in the opinion of Capt. S. H. Lawrence, Toronto bank manager, who sought for ten years to establish a claim to the old estate and never did.

Yet somewhere on those pages, Capt. Lawrence told the Canadian Press, he believes there is an undecipherable record that Hon. Sarah Harley, daughter of the fifth and last Earl of Oxford and Mortimer, married a member of the family which he and four relatives represent.

Meanwhile in Manitoba, Mrs. Lee Julien was held snowbound somewhere between Erickdale and Winnipeg on her way to England, she said, to lay claim to the supposed wealth of her share of the estate. And down in sunny Sausalito, Cal., Thomas Lawrence, ferryboat newsagent, sold his papers and expressed no surprise at reports that might inherit part of the earldom's estate, variously estimated to be worth $40,000,000, some other sum, or maybe nothing.

Thomas, middle aged and married, said the Hon. Sarah Harley married her father's gamekeeper.

It was the record of that marriage that Capt. Lawrence sought for—decades, only to find the one book in which it might have been written had been irreparably damaged when it was lost for years in a rubbish heap made by workmen who rebuilt the old church with funds provided by the last earl.

No comment was available from Jack Lawrence, Calgary, or Charles Brown, Bradford, Ont., other members of the family.

JUNIORS BUSY ON HAYDN PLAY

Young Members of Musical
Art to Stage Production
December 2

The Junior Musical Art Society are busy rehearsing the play, "Scenes From the Life of Josef Haydn," which is to be presented at the Chamber of Commerce on Friday evening, December 2, at 8:15 o'clock. Raymond Seymour is directing the young actors in their roles.

The juniors have arranged this interesting programme as their contribution to the bi-centenary celebration of the great composer, and it is anticipated that many members of the senior organization as well as friends will encourage the young people by their attendance. Members are asked to present membership tickets, and guest tickets may be obtained at the door.

Owing to the confusion which has sometimes arisen through the similarity in the names of the junior and juvenile branches of the Musical Art Society, the junior branch at a recent meeting decided to change its name. A competition will be conducted among the members to this end, suggestions to be sent in to the president and secretary. A prize will be awarded to the member making the best suggestion.

Mrs. Phipps reported on the recent organization of a chapter at Royal Oak. Miss A. B. Cooke, educational secretary, presented a report of this phase of the work, and Mrs. J. Beckett reported as convener of the Girl Guides and Immigration committees. Mrs. Prior told of the financial result according to the chapter through the recent British film showing.

Mrs. L. A. Genie appealed to the chapters to support the mammoth carnival to be staged at the Armories on December 3 in aid of the Women's Workroom. Mrs. G. P. Clarke told of the part played by the standard-bearers during the Armistice Period services.

The chapter received an invitation from the Business and Professional Women's Club to their dinner in honor of Miss Winifred Kydd on Wednesday evening, December 3. There will be no meeting of the chapter in December.

Prior to the opening of the business chapter passed a standing tribute to the memory of the late W. S. Terry, and expressed their condolence to his bereaved family.

UNDERWEIGHT CHILD NEEDS MORE REST, IMPROVED DIET

Height and weight charts always seem more arbitrary to the poor mother whose child does not measure up to them. She wants so badly to have her child weigh exactly what the chart says he should weigh that she forgets all charts mirror only average and not individual children. Very often a child is nearer to the chart's averages than she suspects, for children of the same age vary greatly in height; and it is the relation of weight to height which should strike a true balance in the well-fed child, and not weight to age.

CONSULT WEIGHT CHART

A well-fed child whose environment is good, whose physical condition is good, whose diet is good, should come within one or two pounds of being as heavy as the weight chart says. Consult the weight chart and if the child's weight does not come within the level we call normal, he needs some attention. For mothers who wish to check up on their children's weight, I have prepared a leaflet, "Age, Height and Weight Tables." Specify the age of your child and send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to me in care of this newspaper.

WHAT IS WRONG?

The underweight child may need a physical overhauling. Enlarged tonsils, infected adenoids, or anemia affect the appetite and thus the intake of food and the weight. Also, the diet may need improvement, for all mothers are not conversant with those foods which put on weight and those which are essential, but are not inclined to increase the deposit of fat. Secure a diet which is balanced with all of those foods, a good diet chart for the child should hang in every kitchen cupboard where the mother may easily refer to it. The underweight child probably needs more rest. This last may seem impossible to the mother, as underweight children are nervously energetic and often foil all efforts to get them to rest. But there are ways in which this may be accomplished. Perhaps the child won't take a nap, and cries and fusses so that the insistence upon it becomes a travesty. But most children can be brought in the house fifteen to thirty minutes before lunch.

Love Unlocks The Door

By ANNIE S. SWAN

"Seriously though, John, I don't know what father will do."

"What he ought to do is to go and live with Auntie Bell, and a jolly lucky man he would be to get the privilege."

Jean shook her head.

"That would never do. Auntie Bell's a splendid woman, but she and father have never agreed. They are both too nippy in the tongue to each other. I mean—and he would never give up his books. There would be no room for them in Auntie Bell's. Her place is chockful of the biggest furniture you ever saw in your life."

"I know," said Smeaton discreetly. "I've been there."

"What do you think about father?" she asked as she leaned her head on his shoulder. "He's so gentle and kind to me now I feel as if I could never do enough for him."

"We'll take him, if you like, Jeanie. I'd be glad of it, and you know I have in my mind's eye would be big enough for us all. We'd let him take all his books, and give him his own snugger to put them in. Then if he didn't want to be beside us, he could retire to his kingdom like, how would that do?"

The tears sprang bright and warm in Jean's eyes, and she turned away to hide them. But Smeaton drew her to him, and demanded to know their cause in that grand condescending but entirely tender manner which was her secret glory. To be cared for like this, to have her very expression studied, her slightest wish respected, was not only a wonderful, it was a humbling thing. It had, brought to the surface all thought of undreamed-of womanly qualities in Jean Morrison.

"That doesn't please you either?" "It's what I would like," she whispered back. "But it wouldn't be fair to you, John. You are entitled to have your home to yourself."

"But we're such good friends, we understand one another," Smeaton assured her. "Your father is a man who can face himself, if necessary. See what liberty he gives us in these days."

"There he is, I believe," she said listening with uplifted hand.

She looked so sweet at the moment, with the color high in her cheek and the tender light in her eyes, that Smeaton ventured upon a kiss.

"Thank you for all your goodness. If you really think we could take father I'll make it up to you," she whispered with a passionate note in her voice.

"All right, my lady. I'll have that in black and white," he said significantly. "Is that the old man?"

"He gave the name of Horne."

"Horne! I know a Horne. Bonnygate Works. He has some shares in the school."

Jean nodded and ran out to the door, hearing her father's key, to tell him a gentleman waited for him in the parlor.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Morrison hung up his hat and entered the parlor with a look of expectant surprise on his face. Visitors to the little flat were very few, the advent of a new one so rare an occurrence as to occasion much speculation. Horne turned from his contemplation of the book at the opening of the door, and the two men faced each other.

"Good afternoon," said Horne. "You don't know me?"

"No, sir, I do not."

Horne regarded him keenly, and arrived at a very fair estimate of the man. The well-worn frock coat, the somewhat off-fashioned pearl collar and neck silk bow, the crisp scholastic air were all very characteristic. It was a good strong face, the high brow indicating intellectual gifts which perhaps had never found their proper channel in which to flow freely.

"My name is Horne. Gilbert Horne, of the Bonnygate Works, and Burton Lea, Cramond."

"I know you now, sir, of course, your name is well-known in Edinburgh."

"So it is; perhaps that is a doubtful advantage at times, Mr. Morrison," said Horne with a somewhat ironical smile. "Well, the errand upon which I have come is not a pleasant one. We'd better get the business over as quickly as possible."

Morrison looked apprehensive, but did not open his mouth.

The next words, however, caused the grey color on his face to melt into a sudden shamed crimson.

"I understand that you have two daughters, Mr. Morrison, and that one of them left you some months ago under suspicious circumstances."

She left of her own free will, and without leaving a word as to her name, or whereabouts, on the nineteenth of December last," said Morrison when he could command his voice.

"And you have heard nothing of her since?"

"Nothing direct. She has been to see her aunt in the interval, but we are no wiser about her," answered Morrison, and Horne observed that the hand stretched out to grip the table trembled.

"I have learned to-day that she is the wife of my second son, Gilbert," he said steadily. "So that is the solution of the mystery, which I daresay has occasioned you a good deal of needless pain. It is the price we pay when we give such hostages to fortune."

Morrison looked as if he had not heard aright.

"His wife?" he faltered. "Lily your son's wife?"

"Yes; but, look you, the fiasco does not belie that she is his wife. Though he is my son, I don't believe he ever intended that she should be," said Horne, as if he took a delight in getting the worst out without varnish.

The love affair went on for awhile, and then he took her away after what through what he believed to be a false marriage, which was a binding ceremony. I have a scoundrel for my son, Mr. Morrison, and I have come here to tell you so."

Morrison was unable to speak for a moment, and when he did his voice sounded thick and strange in his own ears.

"How or where did you learn all this?" he managed to say at last.

"I have seen your daughter to-day; but, first, I must go back a bit," said Horne grimly. "My son has been engaged for twelve months to Miss Ingis, the daughter of Lord Kilmarin, one of the judges. I daresay you know his name. Whether he was engaged at the time when he met your daughter first I don't know."

"I can't enlighten you, Mr. Horne, for, look you, I was in ignorance that anything unusual was going on. When she left it was a knock-down blow. Her sister knew a little, but not enough to give us the slightest clue. She knew only that somebody had been and the two men faced each other, coming there to see her when we were both out. And when she ran away we were totally in the dark."

"I believe you, Mr. Morrison. Don't for a moment think that I have attributed any complicity to you. Matters got very strained at the last as the preparations for the other marriage went forward. It was arranged even that he and Miss Ingis were to be married in June. But other things happened in the interval, and I am glad to tell you, Miss Ingis, writing from the south of France, has broken the engagement before she heard anything of this. It was a great relief to me—and will be to her when she knows, I suppose she will have to be told what has really happened."

"It is an extraordinary and unbelievable story," observed Morrison. "But where is Lily?"

"Lily, by this time, I hope, is where she should be—at Burton Lea."

"At your house?" faltered Morrison. "Then you will countenance her?"

"Man, I must do this, she is a respectable woman, and, so far as I was able to judge when I saw her to-day, one of whom nobody need be ashamed. The shame is all on my side."

"No," said Morrison sharply. "It is she who must feel the shame. My daughter did wrong, bitter wrong, and if she has suffered or must suffer, it is only her due."

"Oh, she has suffered, and will suffer," Morrison said, and through yet," observed Horne curtly. "And there is no doubt whatever that when she left home she believed herself to be his wife. You may rest on that, and take what comfort you can from it. She remained true in principle at least to the upbringing she was had here."

"Springing!" repeated Morrison, wearily, she had none. Her mother died when she was a little bairn, and what do men folk know of the ways of ladies?"

"The same boat, Mr. Morrison, for my wife died when Gilbert was a baby. The same thing holds good, I guess, where the lady is concerned, and it may be that I have been so busy getting rich that I've neglected the duty lying nearest. I am bitterly repaid this day."

He walked to the window and stood for a moment looking out upon the dull street, as if his feelings had got the mastery of him.

"What does your son say to it now?" he asked at Burton Lea too," inquired Morrison, who was eager naturally to hear all the details.

"Not he, he's run away, turned his back on the whole kettle of fish, as the coward does," said Horne, with swift scorn, as he turned on his heel again. "That's what brought matters to a crisis. After knocking down and half-killing a man who he imagined was prying into his affairs, he cleared out all breaking into his father's house like a professional burglar. He's off to America; he wrote to your daughter on the ship between Liverpool and Queenstown, and she brought the letter to me this morning. That's where we are now, Mr. Morrison—that's the bright and shining light I have in my second son."

"Then Lily must come back here," said Morrison, firmly, and at once. "Where is she, did you say? I'll go with you and fetch her back."

"Not just yet," said Horne calmly. "She must stay where she is at Burton Lea until I make some arrangements. That at least is due to you and yours. I will act fair and square by her, and try to repair as far as I can the wrong she has done. She has been done. We'll get a hold of him yet, though I must say she does not seem to be so keen about that as that her position shall be made clear to her. She can't be put right to put right her own people; that's how she expressed it more than once this morning."

"I must see her," said Morrison, and his mouth quivered. "I must see her to-day."

"Granted, I'll send her up to you this evening in the carriage—no, I must be permitted to have my own way in this. I intend to show my son how a man should behave. And whether he comes back or not, will make myself chargeable for her future."

Morrison was unable to speak. After a moment's intense strain he held out a shaking hand.

"Sir, you are a good man; God bless you; I can only regret that a daughter of mine should have given you so much trouble and pain."

"He is to blame, I tell you," repeated Horne insistently. "I don't understand it, for she's a girl nobody need be ashamed of. I must have failed somehow, surely, and that sadly if he felt that he was afraid to introduce her to me as the woman he wanted to make his wife. This pride, my God! it makes me sick, and I want to go back to the Canonmills, where my mother did her own work, and was ashamed of nothing except debt and evil speech."

Morrison answered nothing. He was cast in a different mold. Thought moved in slow grooves with him, and words were always few. But the relief of his soul was expressed on his face.

Uncle Wiggly and the Night Bell

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time, in the middle of the night, the door bell rang in Uncle Wiggly's hollow stump bungalow.

"Wiggly! Wiggly! Wake up!" called his wife, for the rabbit gentleman was fast asleep. So fast and light asleep was he that he didn't hear the bell. His wife was a light sleeper, though, and she heard it. She used to say she was an electric light sleeper, for she could jump up so quickly.

"Wiggly! Wiggly!" she called again. "Wake up, there's somebody ringing our bell!"

"Huh? What's that? Some one ringing our bell?" exclaimed Mr. Longears as he opened his eyes. "Well, if you can't mind, my dear, put your head out of the windows, you're nearer it than I am, and tell them to stop. This is no time to be ringing door bells and it isn't Halloween either. It's just after Thanksgiving."

The doorbell rang again.

"There, do you hear it?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"Of course I hear it," her rabbit husband answered.

"Someone wants to come in," went on the lady rabbit. "You'll have to go down, Wiggly, and see who it is."

11-25

He opened the door.

"All right," said the rabbit gentleman, kindly. "I'll go." As he was putting on his bath robe and slippers, Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy thrust her head out of her door, farther down the hall. She had heard the bell ringing and the talk.

"Please be careful, Uncle Wiggly," whispered the quack, "the housekeeper, giving him Baby Bunty's pet name. 'Maybe it's one of the Bad Chaps. Oh, do be careful!'"

"I'll be careful," promised Uncle Wiggly. "I'll go." He went down the stairs one at a time instead of sliding on the banister railing, as he did when he got up in the morning to eat his breakfast. The reason Mr. Longears went down the steps slowly was so he could have a chance to look through the glass in his front door and see who was standing ringing the bell.

"And if it's a Bad Chap I'm not going open," he said. "I'll be so sorry to see him to himself as he softly went down step after step. 'I'll call the Police Dog on the telephone, and have him take the Bad Chap away.'"

The bell rang and rang again. "It must be in a hurry," said Uncle Wiggly. "I don't believe it can be the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat. They wouldn't be bold enough to ring my bell in the middle of the night. They must know I wouldn't be so silly as to open the door without looking. And when I had looked and seen them then I wouldn't open it at all. No, it cannot be one of the Bad Chaps."

By this time Uncle Wiggly was on the last step of the stairs. The bell was ringing, tinkling and tinkling. But as he looked through the glass of the door Mr. Longears said no one.

"If anyone were on my steps I think I could surely see them," whispered the bunny gentleman to himself. "For there's a street lamp out in front and I could see them by its light. Now I see no one."

"Who is it?" asked Mrs. Longears in a whisper from the top of the stairs. Bath robes and slippers and went out in the hall. "Who's there?" asked the rabbit lady.

"No one," said Uncle Wiggly.

"Oh, there must be!" said Nurse Jane.

"Of course," said Uncle Wiggly's wife. "Hear the bell ringing."

"I can't help it," spoke Mr. Longears. "I'm right here at the door and I can look through the glass, and I can't see any one at all standing on the steps."

"The bell can't ring itself!" said the rabbit lady.

"Of course it can't!" agreed Nurse Jane. "Maybe the push button is stuck, as sometimes happens, and then the bell keeps on ringing all by itself," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy as she thought of this.

"Well, maybe that is what has happened," said Uncle Wiggly. "But if the push button of our electric bell is stuck it must have been that way early in the evening and the bell would have been ringing all night. But it didn't just begin, didn't it, my dear?" he asked his wife. "You ought to know," he told her, "for you heard it ringing first and told me."

"Yes, and I had to tell you more than once," said Mrs. Longears with a laugh. "But open the door, Wiggly, and unstick the push button."

So Uncle Wiggly opened the door and saw he did to be standing on the front steps Little Bub, the rainbow boy.

"Surprise on Uncle Wiggly!" shouted Bub, and what the surprise was I'll tell you to-morrow night. Then if the ginger-bread doesn't turn upside down and make the chocolate cake stand on its head, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggly and Bub's surprise.

HE WAS TOO FAT AT FIFTY

Lost 10 lbs. in Two Months

Also Lost His Rheumatism and Indigestion

As a salesman, a load of excess fat wasn't much good to him. He admits his condition lost him business. So a return to normal weight and fitness was a benefit to his pocket as well as to his health.

"I was becoming too fat after reaching 50, and had attacks of rheumatism and indigestion, and my outlook on life was bad. Being a salesman my condition lowered my business capacity considerably. I took ordinary salts and other medicines, but they did not do any permanent good. Then I commenced taking Kruschen as directed—and really I was pessimistic. But in spite of that I soon began to feel different—brighter, stronger, had more energy, no rheumatism, and to my surprise, after two months I lost 10 lbs. in weight, although I was eating much more, as digestion fullness had nearly left me."

"So I am going on with Kruschen. Some days, when having to sleep away from home, I forget it—one is apt to forget when feeling so much better. But I have regretted my forgetfulness, as I have not felt so full of vim during the day, and I fancy I have lost business in consequence. I recommend Kruschen on all my travels."—W. H. G.

The numerous vital salts in Kruschen stimulate and tune up the bodily functions from a number of different angles. Your stomach, liver and kidneys all feel the immediate benefit. Your blood is cleansed of impurities and becomes invigorated and refreshed. You forget indigestion, rheumatism and depression in a new and unusual feeling of physical and mental exhilaration.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

British Team Wins Close Debate Here

Brilliant Sallies of Ivor B. Jones and Hector McNeill Feature of Contest

Decision Close as Visitors Prove Democracy Not Failure in Last Ten Years

Having their case on the argument that true democracy had never existed and therefore could not have been proved to be a failure Ivor B. Jones, University College, Wales, and Hector McNeill, Glasgow University, visiting British team, won a closely contested debate from J. Villiers Fisher and Alaric H. Corby, Victoria. They took the negative on the subject, "Resolved, that Democracy in the Past Ten Years Has Been Proved to Be a Failure." The debate was heard by a capacity audience in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium and won high praise from the judges, B. C. Nicholas, Prof. F. S. Farr and J. B. Clearhouse. The decision was exceedingly close.

Brilliant sallies by the Britishers and shrewd replies to arguments by their opponents won round of applause throughout the contest. Victoria's representatives received their fair share of credit for the admirable presentation they gave the affirmative. Voicing the decision Mr. Clearhouse paid high tribute to the splendid case and good delivery of young Corby, eighteen-year-old Victoria High School student, whom he characterized as one of the youngest men in the field, who had started out exceptionally well.

The debate was sponsored here by the Victoria Service Clubs' Council. Mayor David Leeming presided, and welcomed the visitors on behalf of the city.

Opening the case for the affirmative, Mr. Fisher outlined his interpretation of democracy, the rule of the whole people through their votes, a system which aimed to embody the best of the heart interpreted through the best of the brain. But since wide divergencies of opinion were the rule in all nations such a condition could not obtain, he said.

Minorities in power. Minorities were most frequently the political groups in power. Hence countries attempting to practice democracy could not achieve their objective. Democracy was not defined, but terribly ill, he claimed. Politically the so-called democratic nation craved good leaders but ended by accepting the appointees of a political machine, he said. He cited the recent United States elections to illustrate some of the undesirable elements in allegedly democratic politics.

Nothing was more conclusive evidence of failure than the repetition of mistakes by democratic nations, he said. Such nations, moreover, were constantly changing their governments, another indication of failure.

Economically and socially democratic countries had failed in the last ten years, Mr. Fisher said, outlining the deplorable conditions existing in the world. They had not been continued, added, one jot to liberty.

Mr. Jones, first speaker for the negative, characterized Mr. Fisher's case as the burial service on democracy. Where was democracy? he asked. It was a waste of time to attack something which had never developed, the Williams continued.

Democracy was an ideal which came down through the history of the world. It had never been achieved. His opponent had blamed the ill of the world on democracy, he noted. It had to receive a trial before it could be condemned, he declared. Gradual trends towards democracy during the nineteenth century had increased the means of producing wealth and had led to social betterment, Mr. Jones claimed.

ASK FOR BETTER SYSTEM. Further, he added, democracy could only be criticized by comparison with a better system. Although untried, the ideal, if accomplished, would stand the test, he believed.

Directing most of his arguments against the fruits of democracy as it was allegedly practiced in the United States, Mr. Corby stated it had failed there to give the common people personal liberty. Man had become the slave of the machine. In the courts separate procedures were set up for the rich and the poor, he declared, citing the case of the Insults. Democracy had fallen prey to the venal politician, to the bootlegger and other parasites which were choking it. It had failed to find means of distributing riches equitably. Democratic nations throughout the world were preparing for the "democratic" practice of war to settle their troubles. Democratic parliaments had gone mad, proving their inefficiency. And "democratic" education was autocratically controlled so that teachers were coerced into giving students ideas tinged with political outlooks.

Such were the fruits of democracy, Mr. Corby said.

"If my opponents say democracy is a failure, they must bring forward another system which enjoys greater success," Hector McNeill stated, opening his case.

If they were to indict democracy with present day ills, they had to prove those ills the result of democracy he added.

SEEKS EXAMPLE. If democracy was the sovereign will of the people, as the speakers for the affirmative had argued, how was that will to be determined and how was it to be represented politically? he asked.

Turning to economic democracy, he asked where that condition had existed. Democracy had never existed so how could it have been proved a failure he concluded.

SAFE FALLS AS ROBBERS WORK

Associated Press

Olathe, Kas., Nov. 25.—Six robbers who muffed a heavy moving job in the Bank of Sullivan and fled without loot were sought by Johnson county authorities to-day.

Cutting telephone wires leading out of the little town of Sullivan, the men pried a two-ton safe from its concrete base in the bank early Thursday, but lost control and it crashed through the floor.

Townpeople were aroused by the sight of lights in the bank and organized a posse. The robbers escaped in a truck.

SIX SAVINGS ARE PROPOSED

E. B. Andros Outlines Economies Totalling $38,500 at Public Meeting

Mayorality Candidate Asserts Mayor Leeming Ignores Charges; Other Speakers

At least $38,500 could be saved on six items of the city's budget, E. B. Andros, mayorality candidate, yesterday evening assured an audience of 100 men and women at the George Jay School. Mr. Andros suggested elimination of publicity, $12,500; reduction of automobiles, $4,000; engineer's department, $4,000; land department, $2,000; telephone, $1,000; grants to public bodies, $1,000 and a wage control, $1,000. The aggregate saving of $38,500 would be almost equivalent to a one-mill reduction in the tax rate, or would mean that the city could save more than pay the $200,000 interest due on the city's latest $500,000 loan, the candidate asserted.

When William White, chairman, called upon Mrs. Julia de Blaquiere to introduce Mr. Andros, she took occasion to denounce the expenditure of $25,000 on publicity at a time when hungry children were crying for food.

Mr. Andros said he was deeply offended by the large audience which had marked all the campaign meetings. He was glad Mayor Leeming had spoken yesterday evening at the City Temple. The mayor's replies to questions had given new campaign material.

Mr. Andros said, "Mayor Leeming practically called me a liar when I charged him with having broken a pledge not to increase taxes if the $500,000 by-law was passed." He was saying, when Mrs. de Blaquiere intervened to assert: "I was on the platform at the Ratepayers' Association meeting last spring. I heard Mayor Leeming state emphatically, 'If you pass the loan by-law we will not raise your taxes.'"

Mr. Andros expressed gratitude for the corroboration and said, "You will believe Mrs. de Blaquiere's word before that of Mayor Leeming."

The candidate considered Mayor Leeming had "staked out" a question as to the airport at Gordon Head. "Not a word did he say, no answer did he give to this question as to the airport," he stated.

NO ANSWER AT DISCUSSION. "Did the mayor answer my question why he sold bonds to the citizens at par and at the same time sold a block of $300,000 at a discount? No, he did not. Not a word. He merely said the banks pressed us. Of course they pressed him. It was just business with them. Those bankers knew that they were going to lend that money to the brokers, who were going to make $25,000 out of the deal."

"I'll tell you a banking secret. All the brokers did was to take those bonds, hand them to the bankers and pocket the $25,000 profit," he said.

Mr. Andros said Mayor Leeming had got really angry on Wednesday evening when pressed for a definite statement on subsidizing of the publicity vote to the people. "When he was pushed into a corner and compelled to give a specific answer in regard to subsidization of a referendum, he said, 'No.' Well, now we know where he stands. This is your business, yet Mayor Leeming would not let you taxpayers have a say on such a controversial matter."

"I am not a job seeker, I am not after the pay, but if elected I can save you $38,500," Mr. Andros said, detailing the items.

"Some of these items may be wrong, but some of them will be put into effect if I am elected. Isn't this worth while? They say I am crazy, that I only make mistakes. Well, I'm glad I've been able to arouse such interest," Mr. Andros commented.

The candidate referred to the traveling done by Mayor Leeming during his campaign, on behalf of the Publicity Bureau, or to attend an inter-municipal unemployment conference, or for other purposes. After analyzing each item, Mr. Andros commented: "Yes, the mayor says, 'I have saved a hard for the city and never had a holiday.'"

Asked whether he considered the mayor responsible for the success or failure of civic business, the candidate said, in his opinion the council would work in harmony with him. However, if the aldermen refused to cooperate he would call a public meeting at the Chamber of Commerce. But they will fall into line. They will not monkey with the burg saw, and we will get along all right. Let us do our best anyhow," he said.

Answering another question, Mr.

Home Brew Drinker Just Tired, Judge Rules

Charles Bland, who went through the down-stairs window of the house of L. C. Impey, 321 Kingston Street, at 2:30 o'clock in the morning, took off his boots and socks and lay down on the bed, was set free yesterday morning by Judge Lampman at the end of his trial on a charge of breaking and entering.

The judge declared that after the bottles of home-brew Bland drank at the home of a friend, he was apparently drunk and was looking for a place to lie down and rest, although it turned out to be some blocks from his own home on San Juan Avenue.

After Prosecutor John Clay had conducted the prosecution, the judge ruled that he was not satisfied with the meagre evidence.

Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe Shows Pictures and Gives Interesting Address

Views of wild life in Africa, combined with an entertaining description of the beasts by Brigadier-General Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe were highly appreciated by the local branch of the Alpine Club of Canada which met yesterday evening at the Shrine Auditorium.

Giraffes, leopards, tigers and elephants formed fine subjects for the realistic scenes shown and Sir Charles graphically described the ferocity and fearlessness of man-eating lions. His personal reminiscences were extremely interesting.

A. O. Wheeler, F.R.G.S., president of the club, introduced Sir Charles, and referred to his visit to the Alpine Club camp at Glacier during the summer.

COUPLE FEARED LOST IN BUSH

Parties Seeking Miss H. Carruthers and B. Gallia of Nanaimo

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Nov. 25.—Search parties under Game Warden Greenfield and Constable Jacklin left here early this morning to search for Benny Gallia and Miss Hilda Carruthers, missing since Tuesday on Timberlands Flats, near Ladysmith. Parties of unemployed from South Wellington and Ladysmith will also assist in the search.

Miss Carruthers, in company with Benny Gallia, Joe Gallia and Norman Parker, left here early Tuesday to hunt deer. They proceeded to a cabin in the Timberland district and then divided, two members of the party going in one direction and Miss Carruthers and her companion in another. Since then nothing has been seen of Miss Carruthers and her partner. The other members of the party returned to the cabin and waited until yesterday for the woman and her companion. Yesterday afternoon they returned to town and reported to the police.

"Sleep on, dear father, thy labor is o'er;
Thy willing hands shall toil no more.
For each of us you have done your best,
And God give you eternal rest.
Gone is the face we loved so dearly;
Silenced is the voice we loved to hear,
So far away from sight or speech,
But not too far from thoughts to reach."

TRAIN YOUTH PRACTICALLY

Development of Province Must Come First, Premier-Tolmie Tells Victoria Youth

Home Influence and Ideal of Dignity of Labor Necessary, He Says in Speech

"I do not think we can too strongly stress the importance of training our young people along those lines which are most necessary to the development of this province of ours," said Premier Tolmie yesterday afternoon in the course of his radio address over CFTV, which was carried into all the schools of Greater Victoria.

The Premier said he could not too strongly emphasize the home influence in the bringing up of children and also the necessity for implanting in the minds of British Columbia youth an ideal of the dignity of labor. "I am talking to-day to young British Columbia, the boys and girls who, in the near future, will be taking over the development of this province and its administration," said the Premier.

"Generally, what we call wisdom is measured by the age in which we happen to be living. There is no finality to it, and the methods of to-day will seem hopelessly old fashioned, no doubt, to the children of a few years hence. But so far as possible, everything that we think wise has been placed at the disposal of the students in our schools. There is a homely saying that 'One can drive a horse to water, but one cannot make him drink,' and all that we can do, really, is to provide the facilities. What the student does with them must always be very largely the student's own affair."

"But what money can provide, and what the principles of the intelligence of our day suggests, you students have had. Your lessons, your courses of study, all have been based on these principles, and on those same principles your habits and characters to a great extent have been moulded.

HOME INFLUENCE

"Not for a moment is it to be supposed that these habits, these character traits, are derived solely from what you are taught in school. I cannot too strongly stress the home influence, cannot too strongly emphasize its importance. Those children who are able to pass through early childhood and never see their parents other than happy and in good spirits and good form are tremendously to be envied; those children who never see their parents worried or sad. We all admit that it is harmful to the child to come too early in contact with the unpleasant things in life; we all agree that parents should always be to their children models of conduct and disposition. But in this prosaic everyday world such ideals of relationship are rarely possible. Parents, being human, must have their off moments. Still, what we aim at to-day is for home influence and young people to work together, to combine to form the young mind and the young character, to mould it while it is still plastic and receptive, into the lines which make for good citizenship.

"When we get right down to bed-rock, that is the chief end of education, simply to get you young people to the role of citizenship. "Many of you are in entrance, looking forward to your terms in high school. I want to say that the high school is a place where you must reach an education which only a few years ago was not easily secured. But I feel quite sure that the vast majority of our young people of to-day are fully alive to their advantages and keen to make the most of them.

DEVELOPMENT OF PROVINCE

"However, in that connection, there is one point I wish to bring out. I mentioned a few days ago in speaking to the students in Vancouver, and it will be repeating to you young people of Victoria and Saanich. Equally and Oak Bay. I do not think we can too strongly stress the importance of training our young people along those lines which are most necessary to the development of this province or ours a province rich, as you all know, in natural resources of lumber and minerals and fruitful soil, and a country whose basic industries, for that very reason, will always be extensive. In the development of such a country, labor lies at the root of all progress and expansion.

"If we fail to bring up our young people with that idea in mind, we fail in our duty to the country and to them. We fail, and fail badly, if we nurture in them a distaste for labor, or a reluctance to engage in it. Let me say again that some of the very finest men in British Columbia made their start in life in a dollar's worth of overalls, learned from the ground up, learned to do before they learned to command.

"I think you all realize how very fortunate you are to be growing up in a young country—country with life still to live. I think you all appreciate how much better are your chances and opportunities in such a country than in those crowded countries we call the Old World. I do not doubt for a moment that you acknowledge your advantages in a country where everything is fresh and new and where you are able to grow up with the country, and, as you become men and women, to take a hand in its building and development.

DIGNITY OF LABOR

"By all means, keep ambition, keep it bright and keen. But don't make the mistake of taking too lofty a view of what constitutes success. Don't despise the commonplace and everyday opportunities. Don't sneer at the humdrum.

"What this country is going to need very soon, what it will always need, what it will always be able to absorb, is people who are willing to work. Get that ideal firmly in your mind. Learn to appreciate it at its proper value; learn to appreciate work and the dignity of labor.

"Yesterday I visited eighteen schools in Saanich and gave eighteen short talks to the students, to the little tots and those of maturer years. It was a typical day for Vancouver Island, bright and clear, bracing and invigorating, and wherever I looked I found the country at its best. When I lifted up my eyes, there was Mount Baker sharp and distinct against the sky, and the long bare ridges of the Olympics, and away up into the north, as far as my sight would carry, the high peaks and out in the Gulf the little wooded islands. I looked and felt my whole heart and soul responding to the immensity and rugged strength of this wonderful country. I felt something of the feeling which inspired Sir Walter Scott when he penned the immortal lines: 'Breathes there a man with a soul so dead, that never to himself hath said: This is my own, my native land.'

FINE TYPE OF YOUTH

"But above all, I was impressed again, as I have been on so many other occasions, by the wonderfully fine type of young people which we find in our schools here, and all over the province the product of happy, healthy surroundings and sound up-bringing, full of energy and rest and vigor. And as I stood out there in front of those eager faces, I was consciously proud of them, glad to feel that the destinies of this young country were in safe hands. For you young people will take up the load when we are called upon to lay it down; when we pass out of the picture, the responsibilities will be yours to carry on. We have labored and done the best we knew. The future is in your hands, you are the heirs to this splendid heritage.

"That is an inspiring thought, is it not a moving thought? Keep before you the ideals of the men and women who carved this country out of the rough, who toiled from the sun's rising until its going down, to make homes in the wilderness, the aid pioneer flock, the empire builders. They worked, they met and overcame such obstacles as you will never, I think, be called upon to face. Show your appreciation by carrying on, by building an edifice worthy of the stout foundations which they laid down. The real wealth of nations is in the citizens. One of the finest assets that we have in British Columbia is in our young people. We do not have to meet the same sort of contingencies and emergencies nowadays, but we still have the same indomitable spirit and we may thank God for it. Yes, we have six basic resources in this province, timber, minerals, fertile land, fish, the finest scenery in the world and a cheerful courage which will see us through in any combination of circumstances."

RECOVERY IS NOT FAR OFF

Jan S. Ballingall of London Says Canada and Britain Among First to Emerge

Horizon Brighter in London With Depleted Stocks Giving Impetus to Futures

Recovery is not far off, for Canada and Great Britain, in the opinion of Jan S. Ballingall, London, Eng., who, for the last two and a half months has been slogging up the trade outlook, traveling through the United States on his way here.

"When I left London things were improving, and I have since received reports which indicate the general situation over there is much better," said Mr. Ballingall in an interview given at the Empress Hotel before his departure yesterday evening for Vancouver.

While the unemployment situation in Britain is still serious, Mr. Ballingall says more men are being given employment in the factories which are resuming operations, particularly in the textile trades. He believes there will always be an unemployment problem in Britain.

The recent disorders by hunger marchers in London had not been taken seriously, by the British people, and it was absolutely ridiculous, he said, to infer by these demonstrations that Communism was getting the upper hand.

By way of comparison, he spoke of the recent bonus army invasion of Washington, where the military had been called out to deal with the situation. In London, he explained, crowds of several thousands incited by communistic orators, were quickly dispersed by two or three hundred policemen.

Mr. Ballingall said that Britain had grappled with her problems and the horizon was brighter than it had been for some time.

STOCKS LIQUIDATED

One of the reasons for the present improvement in trade in Great Britain, Mr. Ballingall indicates, is the general business due to the depletion of stocks.

"Early this year," he said, "stuff was flung on the market at low cost to liquidate stocks, and for a time it appeared to have a bad effect. But in the end it proved the policy was sound, for it started a flow of orders to the manufacturers."

Mr. Ballingall expressed the view that the proposal to drop the dumping duties in Canada would build up trade with Great Britain. It was impossible to compete with a 50 per cent duty on everything he said.

"DULCY" WILL BE PRESENTED

To Be First Offering of Fourth Season of Victoria Little Theatre Association

The Victoria Little Theatre Association will commence its fourth season December 3 at the Shrine Auditorium with the presentation of the amusing three-act comedy, "Dulcy," by Geo. S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly.

"Dulcy," who will be portrayed by Miss Margaret Evanson, is a charming, lovable meddler. In her zeal to assist her young husband in business by the exercise of her social graces, she succeeds in mixing business and pleasure, but not successfully. The play is light, refreshing and exceedingly humorous and should be enjoyed by the many patrons of the Little Theatre Association. The cast is under the direction of Edgar Kidd. The costumes are being designed by Claudia Lister, and Maurice Green is in charge of the scenery and lighting.

The Little Theatre Association orchestra is arranging special musical numbers for this production.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Richard Cromwell is one of the happiest stars making pictures. He has a pleasant, boyish disposition which has endeared him to the picture fraternity. During the making of Columbia's football picture, "That's My Boy," which gives him his finest role to date, Cromwell was in his element, for the entire cast, in most of the scenes, was as youthful as himself.

Dorothy Jordan, who is the heroine, also, is of a buoyant, happy nature, and making of the picture proved to be lots of fun for Director Roy William Neill and all concerned.

COMING TO DOMINION

"Steam Haulers" during the filming of a talking picture scene was the unusual experience of Jean Harlow in "Red Dust," the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer drama of life on a rubber plantation in Indo-China, to be shown at the Dominion Theatre, Saturday. Miss Harlow had to walk through a boat set filled with hulls of steam, as part of the action, and when she emerged her famous platinum blonde hair was more glistening and wavy than ever.

Duncan Chinaman Elects Jury Trial

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, Nov. 25.—Cheng Kow, of Duncan, this morning appeared before Judge Barker and was charged under the Narcotic Drugs Act, with being in possession of opium.

The accused elected trial by jury. C. F. Davis appeared for the Crown.

In regard to trade, he said, had not been noticeable to any extent as yet. Mr. Ballingall sees no reason why Canada should not benefit from the Irish situation in supplying Britain with dairy products. This trade was now going to Denmark and Scandinavian countries. British manufacturers, he said, are beginning to send executives to Canada to survey the situation and make business contacts.

Business conditions in the United States were in a bad way, although much was expected as a result of the presidential election, said Mr. Ballingall, who visited New York, Chicago and other large centres in the course of his tour. He came here from Montreal, visiting the principal business points throughout the country. He expects to sail from Montreal December 16 for London.

Charles E. Walters Goes to Boundary Line From Vancouver Supreme Court

His Son, Ralph, Also Ordered Extradited, Is Removed to Oakalla Jail

Charles E. Walters, banker, whose extradition to United States to face federal grand larceny charges in connection with four Washington state banks and the Bankers' Holding Corporation, was ordered by Judge Lampman, in the County Court, to be removed across the boundary line was made to-day by Prosecutor C. L. Harrison, who has been acting for the State of Washington, during all the court proceedings since the arrest of the Walters here on Labor Day.

Mr. Harrison made the announcement in reply to questions from Judge Lampman at the conclusion of the chambers session in the County Court. The prosecutor explained that as soon as Chief Justice Morrison had dismissed the second habeas corpus application brought on Walters' behalf two days ago in Vancouver, the banker was without delay speeded to the boundary line and handed over to deputy sheriffs of Seattle, carrying the warrant for Walters signed by President Hoover.

Ralph Walters, the second banker ordered extradited by Judge Lampman in connection with the same charges, and the son of Charles E. Walters, is still held under Judge Lampman's extradition order which requires him to be held in jail for two weeks to give him a chance to make a habeas corpus application before he

Capt. H. G. Scott Says No Man Could Confidently Foretell Events in Europe

Widely-traveled Calgary Police Magistrate in City to Address Canadian Clubs

Poland is the chief danger spot of Europe, it was stated in an interview this morning by Capt. H. G. Scott, police magistrate of Calgary, who is in the city to address the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs.

Two other danger points are Albania and Bessarabia. Since the war, Capt. Scott, who served with the Canadian Expeditionary Force at Ypres, where he was severely wounded, has traveled extensively in Europe.

When anything worth while has been happening in the European theatre, Capt. Scott has usually been there occupying a front seat. He was in the club at the peak of the French occupation in 1923. He was in Ireland during the boundary crisis in 1924. He was in Albania soon after the Italian-Albanian alliance in 1927. He was in Jugoslavia shortly after the proclamation of a dictatorship in that country in 1929. He made a study of Poland, the hotbed of frontier disputes in Central Europe, in the late autumn of 1930.

TERRIFIC PROBLEMS

At the outset, Capt. Scott told his interviewer that he did not pose as an authority on "these terrific problems." "During my travels," he said, "I have absorbed a great deal that is extremely interesting and intensely picturesque from people who do understand these problems," he said.

"I am now giving impressions of what I have seen and heard and am leaving the people to form their own impressions. No man who knows anything about history will venture to speak confidently on the European situation as it exists to-day," he said.

On being questioned further relative to the political situation in Poland, Capt. Scott explained that the danger existed in the German determination to upset the territorial agreements of the Versailles Treaty and because it is the chief country in Europe bordering on Bolshevik Russia. The danger in Albania, he said, existed in the desire of Italy and Jugoslavia to secure control of the Adriatic.

Another point that will need watching, he points out, is Bessarabia, which has been ceded to Roumania. "Soviet Russia looks with suspicion on the annexing of Bessarabia by Roumania," he said.

Speaking under the auspices of the Association of Canadian Clubs, Capt. Scott addressed the Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel this afternoon on "Changing Conditions in Europe" and will speak before the Men's Canadian Club at dinner in the Empress hall room this evening on "Poland."

On completing his engagements here he will proceed up island and will speak next week at Nanaimo, Courtenay and Port Alberni. He will then go to Vancouver to speak.

FEELING EXISTS 'WORST IS OVER'

J. M. Bowman Says Eastern Business Men Paying More Attention to West

"There is a feeling throughout the country that we have passed the worst," said J. Morland Bowman, executive of the Tandy Advertising Agency, Toronto, who reached the city yesterday on a business tour of Western Canada.

"The business men of the east are paying more attention to western conditions than ever before," he said. "It is a feeling of relief that is being expressed by the business men of the east. It is a feeling that the worst is over."

"If crop estimates are accurate, this year's crop of 44,000,000 bushels of wheat, which is 140,000,000 bushels in excess of 1931, will mean a considerable increase in the flow of money into western Canada, even at to-day's prices," he said.

"I feel that even if crop returns are largely required for settlement of past obligations, the clearing up of these obligations, or a large part of them, will mean a considerable increase in the flow of money into western Canada, even at to-day's prices," he said.

Business conditions in eastern Canada, said Mr. Bowman, also show improvement, due to the almost complete exhaustion of wholesale and retail stocks throughout Canada and the consequent resumption of necessary buying. While here Mr. Bowman has been meeting business interests.

ASK AID FOR NEW BUILDING

Victoria Cricket Club Wants Low Assessment on Proposed Building in Uplands

Oak Bay Sells $16,500 Worth of Debentures at Good Rate of Interest

The Oak Bay Council will investigate the request of the Victoria Cricket Club for an especially low assessment on a building the club proposes to erect in the Uplands shortly. At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the council a letter was read from Frank H. Allwood, secretary of the club, telling of the plans for the proposed building and asking the help of the council by either a remission of taxes for a period, or a low assessment.

The matter was discussed at some length. The club will be advised of the legal difficulties involved, but will be assured the matter will be given due consideration.

Mr. Allwood explained in his letter the club would like to commence building early in December. In the new building it is proposed to enlarge the club's activities to include tennis, badminton, bowling and squash, in addition to cricket. About $7,500 will be spent on the project, and Mr. Allwood pointed out, if the council can aid in the matter of taxes, the unemployed in Oak Bay would be considerably helped over the winter months.

J. H. Fletcher, in a letter, pointed out the necessity of doing something about the dangerous corner on the McInnis property, the corner of York Place and Oak Bay Avenue. There is danger from a crash at this corner between a motor and street car, Mr. Fletcher explained, because of the high hedge and gate bordering the property at the corner. Mr. Fletcher will be advised that the matter will be discussed with the owner of the property.

GOOD PRICE

Debentures worth $16,500 were disposed of at yesterday's meeting to Robb, Robertson and Birch Limited of Victoria. The deal included $11,000 of twenty-year bonds for which the municipality secured a yield of 3.4 per cent and $5,500 worth of ten-year bonds, which will yield 3.5 per cent. This deal was considered a success by the council, both as to price and as to the quality of the securities. Bids for the debentures were received from seven financial firms in Victoria and Vancouver.

EGG PRICES COMING DOWN

Wholesalers Cut Quotations Three Cents a Dozen To-day; Decided Drop Expected Soon

Egg prices, which have defied the general downward trend of commodity prices and have shown up well in comparison with November, 1931, now disclose definite signs of retreating, and it is expected that by the beginning of next week they will be about 3 cents a dozen cheaper.

At present the supply is low, but an increasing quantity next month is expected to give impetus to the slackening price tendency and the consumer may look forward to buying eggs at a decidedly lower price than at present.

To-day wholesale prices dropped 3 cents a dozen on extras, first and pullets. A leading wholesale firm quotes the following in the three brands: Forty-three cents a dozen, firsts; 40 cents a dozen, seconds; and 35 cents a dozen, thirds. The retail cost of a dozen extras to-day is around 55 cents a dozen.

"Eggs are coming down," said a prominent wholesaler this morning, "but people simply will not buy at the present prices, and this is the reason we have had to come down."

KINSMEN HOLD LADIES' NIGHT

One Hundred Attend Interesting Function at Empress Hotel Yesterday Evening

Kinsmen, their ladies and guests, numbering 100 strong, enjoyed a splendid dinner and dance in the Empress Hotel yesterday evening. The ladies observed their regular "ladies' night."

Novel introductions opened the programme which included a good toast. Dr. Arthur Poyntz, president, proposed the toast to the King, and George P. Patt proposed another to "the ladies," to which Mrs. Poyntz replied fittingly.

In proposing the toast to "The National Association," Kinsman Robert Mase spoke of the ideals of the Dominion organization and explained some of its advantages. Pat Mulcahy replied.

Impromptu entertainment was furnished by Dr. Stanley P. Miles and Archie Smith.

Pieces of silverware were presented to the ladies as souvenirs of the function. The evening was brought to a close with dancing.

MRS. H. CHAPMAN IS LAID TO REST

The remains were laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park; the following acting as pallbearers: John Hall, G. J. Burnett, Thomas Machin, William Allen, K. G. McKenna and J. C. White.

MISS KATE E. GAUDIN ARTHUR BODEN

Miss Kate E. Gaudin, grandchild of the late Alexander Caulfield Anderson, chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, is celebrating her birthday to-day. She lives with her sister at 1260 Fort Street and the pair have vivid recollections of the time they set sail from Jersey, in the Channel Islands, and rounded Cape Horn on their way to Victoria in the H.B.C. sailing ship Lady Lamson, of which their father, Capt. James Gaudin, was skipper. Miss Gaudin has been employed for many years in the Marine and Fisheries Department.

Arthur (Dutch) Boden was born twenty-two years ago to-day. DEATH CALLS J. TOWNSLEY

Victorian Member of St. John's Church Died Yesterday; Here Forty-seven Years

Another gap is left in the ranks of the old-time residents of Victoria by the death of James Townsley, who passed away at his home, 636 Simcoe Street, yesterday evening.

Born in Montreal seventy-five years ago, Mr. Townsley came to this city as a young man and joined the staff of the Mount Royal Rice Mills, being manager of the firm for many years. On the closing down of the mill here, Mr. Townsley retired from active business, but carried on contracting work in a small way.

Shortly after his arrival in the city he joined St. John's Church, where services were held in the little building on Herald Street, and remained identified with the church until his death. He was largely instrumental in the building of the present handsome edifice, and was for over fifteen years a warden of the church, both as pastor and people's warden. He was greatly interested in music and did much toward improving the organ equipment at St. John's. He also took keen interest in decorating the church on festive occasions. Up until eight months ago he was a member of the church committee, but ill-health compelled him to resign.

Burying Mr. Townsley are one son, Edward of Seattle, and one daughter, Mrs. Edmund Petch of Long Island, New York.

Funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from St. John's Church.

IS LAID TO REST

Many friends of Mrs. Ruth Ann Barnett gathered at the Thomson Funeral Home yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock to attend the funeral, which was conducted by Rev. John Robson. The casket was covered with many beautiful floral tributes. The remains were laid at rest in Ross Bay Cemetery. The following acted as pallbearers: J. J. Randolph, R. Hetherington, E. G. Harwood and C. A. Haynes.

Intensive Training In Gun Use For Police

Headquarters Revolver Range Improved; More Competitions Planned

Improvement of facilities for practicing at headquarters is expected to give a great impetus to the interest among members of the police force in revolver shooting this winter. Chief Thomson Healey said this morning.

Following the re-equipment of the force this year, the chief is making efforts to have all officers proficient with all types of weapons.

The range at police headquarters is expected to give a great impetus to the interest among members of the police force in revolver shooting this winter. Chief Thomson Healey said this morning.

Regular practices will be held during the winter, probably with inter-force competition. City Prosecutors C. Harrison has displayed a keen interest in the move and has aided considerably in the improvement of facilities. The chief said. Use of a re-loading outfit will minimize the expense connected with revolver practice.

The police armaments have been generally improved lately.

REGULATIONS ON SHELL-FISH

Province and United States Co-operate to Guard Against Pollution

In co-operation with the United States Government the British Columbia Government has decided to put in force a series of strict regulations under the Health Act to guard against the distribution of oysters and clams from waters which might be polluted.

The regulations provide that no shell fish shall be taken from waters except those which have been approved by the Provincial Board of Health. Provision is made for the removal of shell fish from areas not approved by the board. These conditions are set out under which shell fish may be removed from moderately polluted waters during the open season and marketed after being relayed to a large body of clean water. These conditions apply to special circumstances where the new provisions might result in serious loss to owners of shell fish.

Other regulations govern equipment, boats and storage facilities, all aimed to ensure general cleanliness. The regulations which take two pages of The B.C. Gazette are issued under the signature of Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary.

Association, and editor of the late public school magazine, will be present at Spencer's book department to-morrow to autograph copies of his book of "The Three Kings," which will be on sale there. It makes an attractive Christmas gift, and is a made-in-Victoria production.

Hockey's Greatest Combination Was Nearly Broken Up This Season

Rangers' Trio of Cook-Boucher-Cook Gets 672 Points in Six Seasons

Establish Major Hockey Record for Duration of Their Combine

THIS season witnessed the near breaking up of the greatest scoring combination in the history of hockey. The trouble arose when Frankie Boucher, famous centre ice player of the New York Rangers, refused to come to terms until a few days before the opening of the current season. Boucher, along with Bill and Bun Cook, composed the first line for the Rangers, and in six seasons they have accounted for the sensational total of 572 scoring points.

Since the Rangers entered the N.H.L. in 1926-27, the Cook Brothers and Boucher have teamed continuously. Boucher is at centre, Bill on the right wing, and Bun on the left. The duration of their combine sets something of a record in major league hockey, and their unflinching scoring prowess, season after season, found them close to the leaders, contributing to hockey a mark of the kind that may never be equaled.

If Boucher had failed to sign it would have marked the breaking up of a third famous forward line within two seasons. The first to be broken apart was the Boston combination familiarly known as the "Dynamite Trio," which, in the season of 1929-30, eclipsed all scoring marks for a one-team trio. Cooney Weiland, Dit Clapper and Claude Galtner composed this line. Weiland leading the entire league with seventy-three scoring points. Boucher was next with sixty-two, while Clapper had sixty-one. Bill Cook was next with fifty-nine, and Galtner had forty-nine. Galtner was sold last season to the Rangers, but the line carried on with Barry on left wing, Weiland in centre and Clapper on the right flank. This season Weiland is with Ottawa, while Galtner is playing minor league hockey.

The second famous line to pass from existence was the Montreal Maroons combination of Stewart, Smith and Selbert. This trio was known as the "Big Six" line. Stewart to the Boston Bruins. For sheer polish, bewildering skill and understanding the Cook-Boucher-Cook combination is said to be the greatest ever assembled.

Since joining the N.H.L. Bill Cook has scored 168 goals and given 26 assists for a total of 194 points. Boucher has netted the puck 107 times and given 135 assists, while Bun Cook has 104 goals to his credit and 84 assists. Their again, there are the scoring feats of this trio in the Western Canada League.

In the Western League season 1924-25, Bill Cook led the point-makers with twenty-one goals and thirteen assists; Boucher with Vancouver had sixteen goals and twelve assists; Bun Cook with Saskatoon had sixteen goals and three assists.

In the season following Bill Cook again led the league point-makers with thirty-two goals and ten assists; Boucher with Vancouver had fifteen goals and six assists; Bun Cook had nine goals and five assists. Thus over a period of eight seasons in major hockey, west and east, this trio has notched over 800 points for their various teams, one of the most remarkable and prolific scoring feats in the entire history of professional hockey.

Racing fans may hear any day of the birth of a thoroughbred with the famous Twenty Grand as its sire and Nea Lap, sister to the Australian wonder horse, Phalaris, as its dam. And it is not too much to expect that out of the union of those two famous families there may come a new wonder-horse, a mighty crusader of the turf, capable of a mile in 1:35.

Nea Lap, sister to the splendid horse that died of poison and was purchased by Jack Whitney, son of Mrs. Payne Whitney, for $10,000, to be used as a brood mare, and arrived from New Zealand a few days before it was decided to retire Twenty Grand.

She came to Lexington with a record of having won four races in Australia, and, since Twenty Grand arrived at the turn to page 15, Col. 2.

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 25.—A New South Wales cricket eleven was dismissed for a first innings total of 273 to-day by the M.C.C. touring English test team. The scores were: New South Wales 273 (Fingetson 119, unfinished, McCabe 67, Allen five for 69, and Tate four for 53).

Fingetson's stand included some brilliant batting all round the wicket. He was first man in and was unbeatable. His innings lasted about four and one-half hours and included three

BOB KERR WILL NOT LOSE HIS SPRINT RECORD

Hamilton Star's Mark of 4 3-5 Seconds For 40 Yards Still Canadian Mark

R. Metcalf's Supposed New Mark Is Same; Kerr Has Three Other Records

Hamilton, Nov. 25.—Bobby Kerr, Canada's Olympic sprint champion of two decades or more ago, for years one of the most feared field men in the international dash, is not to lose one of his four Canadian records after all. It was revealed yesterday a statement at the annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada would consider Ralph Metcalf's 4-3-5 second mark for forty yards indoors as a new Canadian mark was erroneous.

The United States colored sprinter made the time all right, but Kerr's time, made back in 1912 when indoor tracks weren't as conducive to good times as they are now, was 4-3-5 seconds, too.

The great Hamilton sprinter, manager of Canada's 1928 Olympic track and field squad and chairman of the A.A.U. of C. records committee, also holds Canadian records for fifty yards indoors and 220 yards and 200 yards outdoors. He won the 200-meter dash at the 1908 Olympic Games.

Rhode Island Drop Four Games in Row

Providence, R.I., Nov. 25.—Rhode Island Reds lost their fourth straight game in the current Canadian-American League campaign here yesterday evening, when they bowed to New Haven Eagles, 4 to 3. It was the first victory of the season for the visitors. Harrington scored twice for Providence and assisted Murray with the other. New Haven's goals were scored by Wilson, Kuhn, Lloyd Jackson and Padgon.

Senators Blast Out 6 to 3 Win Over Montreal in Last Period Spurge

CANADIENS DROP THIRD STRAIGHT

New York Rangers Have Hard Task to Get Tying Goal With Chicago

Perched in a second-place tie with Montreal Maroons one point behind the deadlocked section leaders, Ottawa Senators to-day are in a better strategic position than any of their international section rivals of the National Hockey League.

A deadly four-goal attack in the third period gave Ottawa a 6 to 3 triumph over Montreal Maroons yesterday evening after they had come from under the second to wipe out Maroons' first-period two-goal lead. With two wins to their credit in three games played, Ottawa has at least two games in hand over any of their group rivals.

Montreal Canadiens lost their third straight game in another tilt that altered the standings. Shut out 2 to 0 by Toronto Maple Leafs, Canadiens backed into sole possession of the bottom rung, while the Stanley Cup holders entered into a first-place tie at the top with the New York Americans. While international section teams were shuffling places, New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks placed Chicago on an even footing with Detroit Red Wings in second place in the United States section.

BROTHERS STAR

The Kilrea brothers, Wally and Hee, were the big guns in the Ottawa-Montreal tilt. Both scored goals and scored the first in the second, and both aided Allen Shields on a third-period score. Young Sid Howe was close behind with a pair of goals, one in each of the second and third stanzas. Gus Forslund, former Port William player, aided Sid in his first goal.

Maroons did all the scoring in the first period. Lionel Conacher, big defense star, led off with the first goal on a play with Glen Brydson and Hughie Plaxton. Plaxton scored his first National Hockey League goal on a pass from his one-time Olympic teammate, Dave Trotter. Big Train Conacher got the only Maroon tally in the second period, assisted by Plaxton and Charlie Conacher. Hee scored the first National Hockey League goal on a pass from his one-time Olympic teammate, Dave Trotter. Big Train Conacher got the only Maroon tally in the second period, assisted by Plaxton and Charlie Conacher.

LEAFS SHOW SPEED

Canadiens' famed speed was overshadowed at Toronto where the Leafs met their pace with a speedier front-line wave. Both Toronto goals were scored in the third period. Andy Blair, tall so-called third-line centre, scored the first on a pass from right wing Ken Dryden, former international League star. Hard-bitten Charlie Conacher netted the other one when he went in fast for h.s. own rebound. Lorne Chabot, heavy-browed Toronto goalie, earned his first shutout.

Lester Patrick's New York Rangers barely escaped defeat on their own ice, and their first shutout in fifty-nine games. Paul Thompson's smooth scoring earned goal in the second period while his team was playing sport until two minutes from the end of the third period, when Babe Selbert and a driver past Chuck Gardiner with Ching Johnson awarded an assist. Neither team could score in the overtime.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—Two goals down at the end of the first period, Ottawa Senators sprang a big surprise on Montreal Maroons here yesterday, and ran in six goals to smother Eddie Gerard's men by a 6 to 3 score.

At the end of the second period, the Senators, making their first National Hockey League appearance here since the spring of 1931, had tied the score at 2 to 2. A flurry of four goals in the last twenty minutes swamped the Maroons.

Blond Hee Kilrea scored twice for Ottawa in the third period and got an assist on Allan Shields's goal. Sid Howe scored the first goal. Hee also fattened his average with a brace of goals.

Wally Kilrea scored the other Ottawa goal. Lionel Conacher counted twice for Maroons. Hugh Plaxton banged one past Connell for Maroons' second goal.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Maroons, Conacher (Brydson and Plaxton), 15:00; 2, Maroons, (Plaxton-Trotter), 15:45. Penalties: Conacher, McInelly. Second period—3, Ottawa, W. Kilrea (Weiland), 2:16; 4, Ottawa, W. Kilrea (Forslund), 9:32. Penalties: Shields. Third period—5, Ottawa, Shields (W. Kilrea and H. Toronto, Nov. 25.—Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup holders, returned to win their fourth straight game, and in a spotty game won their National Hockey League tussle with Montreal Canadiens, 2 to 0. Honors for the night went to the two goalies and the leading scorers, who were by far the best attacking squad on the ice. Blair scored the first Leaf goal on a perfect pass from Doran, while Conacher got

Final Card At Wembley in April

London, Nov. 25.—Forgetting league worries for the day, sixty-eight teams to-morrow will enter the first round of the English Cup, greatest soccer competition in the world, and point their hopes toward the final at Wembley in April. For many of them to-morrow's struggles mean the culmination of weeks of fighting through preliminary rounds to reach the qualifying stages.

Only the third division teams of the English League—given a bye into the first round—enter the preliminary rounds to-morrow. First and second division clubs do not begin play in the cup series until the third round, starting January 1. The still grand continues through the winter until two survivors fight for glory and gate receipts at Wembley in April.

A feature cup duel is that between Brentford, third division southern section leaders, and Reading, who are in the preliminary rounds to-morrow. Motherwell and St. Mirren, separated by only two points in the standing, both have to win to advance. Both teams are expected to defeat the leaders, are being called to put up a good battle.

A close battle is in prospect between Motherwell and St. Mirren, separated by only two points in the standing, both have to win to advance. Both teams are expected to defeat the leaders, are being called to put up a good battle.

VILLA PLAYS MANCHESTER

While the cup teams are battling league leaders in the first division will be fighting for retention of their places at the top of the heap. Aston Villa, who lead the first division, are expected to advance, both having twenty-five points, meet Manchester City and the Gunners take on Middlesbrough. Both their opponents are near the cellar in the standing and wins by the leaders are expected. In an attempt to provide an upset, Manchester City is making two changes, Corbett, a newcomer to the first division, replacing Dunn at right back, and Tilson moving to centre forward.

Huddersfield and Sheffield Wednesday should put on a stirring battle in the most evenly-matched game among the more highly-placed teams. Huddersfield, tied for second place with Derby County, are only two points ahead of the Wednesday. Derby have an easier game in view, taking on Leicester City, who have won only one

Two Big Problems Facing Rulers In Canadian Sports

Pro-amateur Proposal and Move to Bar Women Writers Will Be Settled

Pro-amateur Plan Gaining Support

Resolution Against Scribes Directed at Alexandrine Gibb and Mrs. Cook-McGowan

Winning, Nov. 25.—Two weeks before Canada's governing body in amateur sport deals with a proposal to loosen the bonds that keep professional athletes from competing on any terms with amateurs, the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada will discuss a resolution to oust from activity all the moneyed ones of women's sport.

It would bar women sports writers not only from competition, but from holding official positions on organizations affiliated with the W.A.A.F. of C. Incidentally the resolution is expected to receive extremely short shrift at the hands of delegates when it is placed before them by Miss Alexandrine Gibb, president, and herself a widely-known sports writer.

The proposal advanced by the Quebec branch is directly opposite that of the Ontario branch, which is to allow women writers to compete on any terms with amateurs, the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada will discuss a resolution to oust from activity all the moneyed ones of women's sport.

While this resolution is given scant chance of gaining support at the convention that opens here to-morrow, a plan to be presented at the A.A.U. of C. meeting at Ottawa next month for allowing professionals in one sport to participate as amateurs in others gathered widespread support. It was the subject of a long debate at the Saskatchewan branch.

Alberta, Manitoba and British Columbia are expected to give it at least a measure of support, and Quebec may fall in with the team that would permit such professional hockey stars as Lionel Conacher, Yip Foster, Red Moore, Norm Himes, Teddy Graham and a host of others to mingle with the Simon-pures in rugby, baseball, soccer and other sports.

It is considered certain Ontario delegates will strenuously oppose the scheme, and a number of outstanding officers of the Dominion organization are known to be in accord with the Ontario stand.

Sudbury Wolves In Title Chase Again

Holders of Canadian Junior Hockey Championship Build Formidable Club to Defend Honors This Season; Have Only Three of Last Year's Regulars

Sudbury, Nov. 25.—North country hockey circles are abuzz with the news that a rebuilt Sudbury Wolves squad, one of the heaviest and fastest teams in junior hockey, will defend their Memorial Cup championship this year and that they will do it without their celebrated coach, Sammy Rothchild.

Sammy, according to Dame Rumor, will be appointed coach of the Soo Greyhounds. In the junior N.O.H.A. arch enemies of the Wolves, the reason for the coaching change is mutual, "said."

Only three regulars of last year's champions are with Sudbury. Alward La France, left wing, Nakina Smith, centre, and Captain "Red" Porter, defence.

Around this sterling trio and chosen ally from the products of one of the most flourishing hockey centres in Canada, has been built a team which will line-up something like this. Goal, Bill Dorman, last year with North Toronto; defence, Captain Porter, and Martin Thompson, the latter last year with Parry Sound; centre, Smith, Jack Wilkes, last year with Iroquois Falls,

Toronto Boy Wins Berwick Marathon

Berwick, Pa., Nov. 25.—Will McCloskey, Toronto, wearing the colors of the Monarch A.C. yesterday won the twenty-third running of the Berwick Marathon. Completing the nine-and-a-quarter mile grind in forty-nine minutes, nine seconds.

FRANK TURVILLE BIG FACTOR IN FOOTBALL FINAL

Kicking Star of Hamilton Tigers Their Main Threat Against Toronto Varsity

Clubs Will Battle Saturday at Toronto For Right to Meet Regina Roughriders

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Alone in the field for nomination as the east's defender of Canadian football supremacy, Hamilton Tigers and University of Toronto clash here to-morrow to decide which is better fitted to meet the charge out of the west of Regina Roughriders.

A crowd of more than 12,000, it might reach 16,000 if the weather is kind, will watch the eastern finalists in a battle that has aroused comparatively little interest here.

Both teams have been beaten, both have had major scores run up against them and they have arrived so far only after terrific battles. Varsity dropped some of its most promising players in the push to the intercollegiate title and the Bengals were pushed over once by Montreal Winged Wheelers in the Big Four campaign.

Several hundred Hamilton fans will augment the Tiger invasion of Varsity's stronghold to cheer along the forces of Billy Hughes, favored not only to trample the Bengals but to capture the national championship. Montreal won a year ago.

If Frank Turville plays the same brilliant kind of football he has produced in every Hamilton game this season and the tankmen return to form on a gridiron that is sure to be less sloppy than the field on which they nearly succumbed to the Saris Powerhouse, the Bengals should win. They have more experience, weight and attacking force in the line, and in Turville the most spectacular performer of the year.

Oliff and Avory Win Net Matches

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 25.—J. S. Oliff and E. Avory, Hamilton, won their matches in the international tennis series yesterday. Oliff defeated Pernambuco, 6-2, 6-2, 8-6, and Avory won from Costa, 6-3, 8-6, 6-1.

and a real corner, and Jack Young, native-born Sudbury boy, last year with St. Andrew's College, Toronto; left wing, La France, Arthur Dube, last year, the Noranda seniors, and a native of Sudbury, and Carson Miller, last year with Kapuskasing, who will also relieve on the defence; right wing, Ray Morgan, last year with Montclair Academy, Manay, Brown, last year with Chalk River, and Ivan Fraser, who was with last year's team; but was ill and unable to play.

SILVERMAN IS MANAGER
Max Silverman is again manager, and for the present there is a question mark against the coaching job. Believe it or not, this team will average 175 pounds or 180 pounds, according to an official of the club.

Outstanding Rugby and Football Games To-morrow

Gunners Place Hopes In Pack For Rugby Game

Will Have Strong Scrum to Oppose Classy J.B.A.A. Team in Main Senior Match

Highlanders Will Meet Wanderers

Three Senior "B" and Two Intermediate Fixtures Will Be Played

Looking forward to strength in his forward division to offset to a certain extent the power of the rival backfield, Coach Doug Roberts of the Fifth Brigade will make the best of a weakened team for his big rugby match against Bob McInnes' classy James Bay Athletic Association squad at the Royal Athletic Park to-morrow. The fixture will be the feature senior A rugby match. Special hands will lend attraction to the encounter, receipts from which will go to the city.

In the other encounter in that division, Canadian Scottish, depleted by serious injuries to several of their men last week, will face the Oak Bay Wanderers at the Willows.

Other games scheduled for the day follow:

SENIOR B
Garrison vs. Navy, Navy Ground.
P. B. Derbyshire vs. Scottish, High School, Gray.

Wanderers vs. J.B.A.A. Work Point, F. A. Sparks.

INTERMEDIATE
University School vs. Scottish, Mount Tomlin, C. Jones.

Victoria College vs. Wanderers, Oak Bay Park, E. A. Walls.

H. A. Tomlin will handle the whistle for the game at the Royal Athletic while Bill Ellis will look after the fixture at the Willows.

All games will start at 3 o'clock.

STRONG IN SCRUM

Playing an eight-man scrum, the Gunners expect to more than equal the Bays in the pack in their play to-morrow. In order to combat the rowing club's fast backfield they will line up close in their three-quarter defence and hope to stop the J.B.A.A. fliers before they get away.

Hampered by the loss of George "Wamba" Warnock and Bunny Cook the Fifth will nevertheless have a strong pack, while the backfield should be good on the defence.

Fresh from their victory over the Scots in last Saturday's disastrous game, the rowing club will be out for its second win of the season. The team showed the rediments of an exceptionally strong attacking squad and providing their three-quarter can fit in combination play, they should demonstrate a fast open brand of rugby.

Both the Scots and the Wanderers will be considerably better than normal strength in the game at the Willows. The troops will be without the services of Johnny Rowland, Bill Oliver, Jack Brydon, Ted Colgate and Bill Borman, all out of the game with injuries, while the Wanderers will miss Doug King, Scott and McConachie, who are on the sick list.

the farm a few days later, probably the two already have discussed their conquests and are finding much in common. Twenty Grand probably has explained apologetically that he would still be out there breaking good horses' hearts if it hadn't been for that weak leg of his that finally got him down.

Probably Nea Lap has been telling Twenty Grand that her brother, Phyl Lap, became known through his amazing string of victories "the Terror of the Turf." To which it would be no more than fitting for Twenty Grand to reply that he had done a bit of terrorizing himself in his three years of galloping past highly regarded pugs.

Manchester, Eng., Nov. 25.—Disarmament, one of the long odd entries for the November handicap which is being run to-morrow, has been a bit of a puzzle. It was Rockcliffe, Disarmament had been quoted at 25 to 1 and Rockcliffe at 33 to 1. Lowery is to ride scoundry instead of W. Wragge. There are twenty entries for the mile and one-half event, which is the last of the major races for the 1932 season.

A big Thanksgiving holiday crowd of 12,000 witnessed the brilliant battle.

Paul Thompson, tallied for the Hawks on a remarkable solo exhibition of stickhandling, while his team was playing a man short through a penalty. Midway through the second period as he ragged the disc, a Ranger chased him, but he suddenly broke away to split the New York defence-men and rattle the puck behind Andy McInnes.

Coach Leach's strategy was to lead three and four-men charges piercing into the visitors' goal zone, but Charlie Gardiner, staging a return to form in the Hawk net, turned everything deftly aside.

The tying goal came late in the third period, with the Rangers less than two minutes separated from what seems to be being their first shut-out in fifty-nine games. Babe Siebert, wing man from the Montreal Maroon ranks, let a tartar fly from far out and Gardiner apparently did not see the puck as it flew under his outstretched arm.

STIMULY

First period—No score. Penalties: Abel, Babe Siebert, Holmes.

Second period—1, Chicago, Thompson.

Third period—2, Rangers, Babe Siebert (Johnson), 18.12. Penalties: Thompson, Johnson, Abel.

Final score—Rangers, 2; Chicago, 1.

Washington Beaten 9 to 6 By Plunging Southern California Trojans at Seattle

New York, Nov. 25.—Colgate's Red-Raiders, the Nebraska Cornhuskers, the Volunteers of Tennessee, the Texas Longhorns and the Trojans of Southern California took the drumsticks from football's Thanksgiving Day feast in the United States in the form of his second honors.

On the east and west coasts were the outstanding triumphs, bringing the possibility that Colgate and Southern California will be chosen for the great rose bowl battle on New Year's Day. Battering down a stubborn Brown defence in the fourth quarter, Colgate drove over the Bears of Brown 21 to 0 to finish their regular season as the nation's only unbeaten and undefeated team and the nation's only major eleven with an unbroken goal line.

Southern California found Washington a tougher rival but the men from Troy came through with a 9-to-6 victory in the Pacific Coast conference title game at the Pacific Coast stadium in Los Angeles, which also had been unbeaten, fell before Washington State 3 to 0.

GREAT RECORD

A crowd of 26,000 saw Colgate ride over their last big eastern barrier to a sensational record of 274 points scored to none for the opposition.

In the southern conference Tennessee, unbeaten but did once, was trounced Kentucky 26 to 0 and was left with Louisiana State as the only possible challenger to Auburn's claim when Alabama's crimson tide rose unexpectedly to win Vanderbilt, undefeated but twice tied, 21 to 0.

Nebraska, which already was clinched the Big Six title, ended its conference season with a triumph over an old foe, Missouri. In the east Penn turned back Cornell, 13 to 7, in their clash, and the Violets of N.Y.U. gained a victory over Cornell, 13 to 7.

Washington played Oklahoma the Big Six 7 to 0 tie.

Arkansas stepped into the limelight by holding the hitherto unbeaten and undefeated—Centenary to a 13 to 0 tie.

Wheat Prices Hold On Outside Support Despite Pressure

Canadian Press
 Winnipeg, Nov. 25.—In spite of all outside markets being lower, wheat prices held steady today. The market was supported by a new low record, however, this break was only temporary, the loss being quickly recovered. There was only a scattered export business worked overnight, but a little came in from the United States and was worked through Vancouver export houses yesterday, estimated at 1,000,000 and probably 800,000 bushels would cover the business today.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)
 Winnipeg, Nov. 25.—Wheat: After opening about unchanged held fairly steady. During the first period wheat took a nose dive to 48 cents for May, a new low record. However, this break was only temporary, the loss being quickly recovered. There was only a scattered export business worked overnight, but a little came in from the United States and was worked through Vancouver export houses yesterday, estimated at 1,000,000 and probably 800,000 bushels would cover the business today.

The chief support in the market was from government agencies who were buying the May while elevator companies were selling the May and buying the December at the board difference. Part of the local crowd appeared to be bearish and pressed the market every time the government support dried up temporarily.

The cash market was quiet today, the demand being very limited. Offerings were not pressing and all spreads were unchanged. Black Sea shipments this week are only 500,000 bushels, as against 1,000,000 bushels last week.

Wheat futures closed 1/4 higher to unchanged. Coarse grains: These markets were quiet again today with little going on, no business being reported.

Oats: Closed 1/4 lower to unchanged. Barley: 1/4 lower, and rye 1/4 to 1/2 higher. Flax, dull, drags market. Feature closing prices 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Liverpool due 1/4 to 1/2 higher on Winnipeg.

Lack of Taste, Rather Than Lack of Morals, Is Fault of Younger Generation—Immodest Dress, Frankness and Rudeness Shock Oldsters Because They Are Crude, Not Because They Are Evil

WHAT'S the matter with the younger generation is not so much lack of morals as lack of taste. At least that is the thing that shocks us oldsters most and over which we oftenest hold up our hands in horror and demand to know what this age is coming to. It isn't that what the boys and girls do is really wrong. It is just that it is in such execrably bad taste, and while we might forgive their smashing the Ten Commandments we can't forgive their outraging our sense of beauty and tearing down and trampling under foot the illusions and reserves with which we have cloaked so much of the ugliness of life.

You can take the way in which girls dress, or more accurately speaking, undress, as a good illustration of this point of view. The way in which they exhibit their persons in public in a next-to-naked state and have themselves photographed for the Sunday paper so that every leering eye may comment on their points, brings a blush to every middle-aged cheek.

Yet the crime consists not in the nude in art, but in there being no art. Modesty, as we all know, is a matter of geography and custom. The South Sea belle, clad only in a hibiscus flower and a string of cowrie shells, is as conventionally dressed as our mid-Victorian grandmothers were in their seven starched petticoats. Legs are intrinsically no more indecent than arms and it is no more immoral to display them.

If every girl had the proportions of a Miss Canada, no voice would be raised in protest against what she left off. It is when we behold the anatomical blunders that Nature commits and that are forced on our attention that we criticize the dress of the modern flapper and feel like reminding her that clothes are like the mantle of charity. They cover up a multitude of sins.

Then there is the conversation of the younger generation, which causes us older ones to gasp and reach for our smelling salts. "Frankness," they call it when they delve into subjects that people formerly only discussed with their family physician. No topic is taboo. No revelation too personal to be publicized. No young lady's vocabulary is complete without she has a fluent command of swear words and curses that would turn a roustabout green with envy.

"Who is that little filly over there? She looks like a high-stepper." "Where is that little hussy I met last night? She's a hot number," were comments made in my hearing by two young men at a fashionable party, and a friend of mine told me she almost passed out recently when she heard her seventeen-year-old daughter and a boy having a hot debate on birth control.

Other days. Other customs. Other standards. Perhaps these boys who call girls fillies and hussies really mean no more than their fathers who called the young women they admired angels. Perhaps it is even a good thing for young people to know where they stand before marriage on the baby proposition, but no one can deny that this breaking down of all the reserves between the sexes is a death blow to romance and sentiment. Nor can any one honestly contend that it adds to any girl's attractions to carry a line of profanity.

It is, of course, all right to call a spade a spade, but why drag spades into the parlor, as the younger generation do, and make them the topic of conversation in mixed company?

Perhaps nothing about the younger generation gets so on the nerves of the elder as its lack of manners. Generally speaking, politeness has become a lost art with the boys and girls of to-day, and with rare exceptions, they do not take the trouble to be civil to older people. Hostesses complain that their young guests do not even bother to signify whether they accept or refuse an invitation, so they never know how many are coming to a party, and after the guests do arrive they think nothing of departing almost in a body if there is a scarcity of drinks or somebody suggests that there is a livelier affair going on somewhere else.

In fact, rudeness may be said to be the fashion and brutality in speech and lack of consideration for the feelings of others is considered smart. Which may go a long way toward explaining why so many young people find life hard sledding, for the world is still run on soft soap instead of rocks, and good manners open doors that are shut to boorishness.

But the thing that really shocks us oldsters more than anything else is the attitude the modern young man takes to girls. To all outward seeming chivalry is dead. Girls make the dates. They give the parties. They do the telephoning. They write the letters. And men condescendingly accept their attentions. When they design to take a girl out they drive up to her house and honk the horn until she comes out and climbs, unassisted, into the car. Observe any automobile that has in it an amorous couple and the girl will have her arms around the man's neck and her head on his shoulder, while he is sitting up as stiff as a ramrod with a bored expression on his face.

Woman has become the pursuer and man the pursued, and this is not only bad taste, but bad psychology on the woman's part. And it is this bad taste that we oldsters deplore.

Exploring South America

X-WE VISIT COLOMBIA

Caught in a snowstorm at the Equator! That might be the title of the story we shall tell the folks when we get back home. Right now, however, we are thinking of the howling wind and driving snow outside this hut on the mountain top. When will the snow cease?

We see two women with water jars

We ask our guide about that point but he shakes his head. The snowfall is fast and furious and it is impossible to stop in less than an hour. We make ourselves as comfortable as possible, and eat some of the chocolate bars which we have brought along. After about two hours in the hut, we find that the snowstorm is over. Going down the snow-covered side of the mountain is more dangerous than it was coming up; but with the help of our guide and the sure-footed donkeys, we return to Quito safely. Once more Banty tunes up our trusty airplane, and once more we rise toward the clouds. We are heading north, traveling at a speed of 150 miles per hour. Onward we go, onward above the great Andes. These tall and beautiful mountains will leave pictures in our minds for years to come. What country next? Colombia! It is a republic named in honor of Christopher Columbus. Colombia is of nearly the same size as Peru. It contains about 2,000,000 white persons (mostly of Spanish stock), 700,000 negroes and 700,000 Indians. In addition to these, there are about 3,500,000 persons of mixed blood. A great number of those who have mixed blood are part-Indian, part-negro and part-white. Farming and cattle raising are the leading industries of Colombia. Coffee, grown on the slopes of the mountains, is the leading product of the soil. In a recent year, the coffee crop amounted to more than 2,500,000 pounds. Even so, Colombia is not a close rival of Brazil as a coffee country. We pause at Bogota, capital of Colombia and one of the oldest cities of the New World. It dates back to 1538. During a stroll around Bogota, we observe two Indian women filling large clay jars with mineral water. This water is delivered to those who want to buy it for from two to five cents per jar. Colombia is the last country we visit during this trip around South America. As we fly north, across the Gulf of Mexico, I lean over and ask, "Have you had a good time?" "For 'travel' section of your notebook. To-morrow—A Little Saturday Talk."

It is reported here the commission is planning such co-operation with private industry because no funds are available with which to initiate the projects which the commission was brought into being to launch.

How To End RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Out Poisons,
That Cause Torturing Stiffness,
Swelling and Lameness

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

You cannot get rid of rheumatic aches and pains, Neuritis, lame joints till you drive from your system the irritating poisons that cause rheumatism. External treatments only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-Ma, the new internal medicine that acts on the liver, kidneys and blood and expels through the natural channels of elimination these dangerous poisons.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop—RU-Ma enters pain first day—and so quickly and safely ends stiffening, crippling lameness and torturing pain that MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores urge every rheumatic sufferer to get a bottle to-day. They guarantee it.

GERMAN SAILORS HELP EACH OTHER

San Pedro, Nov. 25.—German ship lines are alternating jobs aboard their vessels in an effort to relieve unemployment, said officers of the Hamburg-American line, Los Angeles, which arrived here yesterday from Hamburg and Bremen.

A large number of men in the regular crew of the Los Angeles are now ashore in Germany for a few weeks or even months, their places in having been temporarily filled by men who have been out of work for some time.

Lead Line Laws May Be Changed

Shipping Interests Want Inside Waters of B.C. Exempt From Regulations

Seattle Shippers Discuss Foolishness of Surveying Barge For Trip Over Here

Vancouver, Nov. 25.—Efforts of shipping interests of this coast to have the Puget Sound and British Columbia Coast trade inside waters exempt from the international lead line regulations have borne fruit. The Vancouver Chamber of Shipping has received word that a draft treaty has been prepared at Washington and been submitted to Ottawa for consideration.

Exemption has been sought by towboat and general coastwise interests of Puget Sound and this coast for some time.

"When the international convention on lead lines included in its regulations a clause providing that contiguous waters of contiguous signatory countries might be exempt the Canadian Government expressed a willingness to enter into a treaty with the United States to exempt the inside waters of this coast."

The United States government refused, and Seattle shipping interests, led by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, voiced protest. As a result Washington dispatched a commission to Seattle to inquire into the matter.

Capt. C. D. Nerouso, representing Victoria shipping interests, J. H. Hamilton of Vancouver Chamber of Shipping, and Harold Jones, representing British Columbia towboats, attended the hearing.

The outcome of the hearings of the commission is the preparation of the draft treaty just forwarded to Ottawa by Washington. It is expected that the matter will soon be adjusted to the satisfaction of the shipping interests of Washington and British Columbia.

Seattle, Nov. 25.—Strong opposition to the international lead line law and its surveying charges as applied to Puget Sound barges and scows has developed among Seattle tug boat men.

The protests are based on two main points, first that a private concern of ship surveyors has been delegated to the tug boat men, and second, that the law is not sound in theory and does not work out in a practical manner.

In a letter to the secretary of commerce, Wedell Foss of the Foss Company embodies the ideas of a majority of local operators on the subject. The letter in part follows:

"The idea of a governmental bureau appointing a private concern to execute the law is not sound in theory and is not fair to the steamboat inspection service, organized, capable and we believe, willing to take over this work without cost."

"We do not care how much money you make us spend here there is life involved. But in these days we object most strenuously to needless expenditure of money to 'protect' our own property (no lives) that we ourselves are better able to protect."

Other tug boat men, yesterday pointed out that under the terms of the law a scow must be surveyed and a lead line established to take a cargo to a foreign port, the entire voyage being through aboriginal waters, whereas under the same law, a scow can be sent to San Francisco on the open ocean without such a lead line.

The cost of the survey and fixing of the lead line averages $100 for each scow and it must be done every year, operators say.

San Pedro, Nov. 25.—German ship lines are alternating jobs aboard their vessels in an effort to relieve unemployment, said officers of the Hamburg-American line, Los Angeles, which arrived here yesterday from Hamburg and Bremen.

A large number of men in the regular crew of the Los Angeles are now ashore in Germany for a few weeks or even months, their places in having been temporarily filled by men who have been out of work for some time.

HAS EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY

Capt. John Irving

Of Victoria, who yesterday celebrated his eightieth birthday. Capt. Irving is one of the most picturesque shipping men on the Pacific Coast. Born at sea off Oregon on the ship Robert D. Carter, owned by his father, he was associated with the sea from then until the time of his retirement a few years ago. Commencing his career with his father on the old steamer Onward, on the Fraser River, he became a master at the age of twenty.

Capt. Irving received his early education in the schools of Victoria. At the age of sixteen he went to sea as a deckhand on one of his father's vessels. Shortly after his father died in 1872 Capt. Irving commenced to add new steamers to his fleet. To the steamers left by his father he added the Hope, the Glenora, the Onward and the Royal City. In 1877 he bought the steamer Wilson G. Hunt which he placed in direct competition with the Hudson's Bay Company's steamer Princess Louise in the New Westminster-Victoria route. In 1881 he built at Moodyville a cost of $50,000 the fine stern wheel steamer, Elizabeth Irving. A few months later, when making her second trip, she caught fire at Hope Landing and burned to the water's edge.

In 1892, with a capital of $500,000, the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company was formed and Capt. Irving was appointed its manager and commander of the steamer R. P. Rithet, the Princess Louise, the William Irving, the Western Slope, the Enterprise, the Reliance, the Esmeralda, the Otter, the Maude, the Gertrude, the Premier, the Islander, the Sardonys, the Danube and the Amur. In 1901 Capt. Irving sold his ships to the Canadian Pacific Railway and from them has grown the fine fleet of Princess steamers that ply up and down the coast to-day.

Capt. Irving is also well known in Alaska and the Yukon. He organized the Yukon Navigation Company and put on the Yukon River the steamers Gleaner, Reaper and Scotia. In 1900 Capt. Irving sold his company to the White Pass and Yukon Route.

In 1904 Capt. Irving was elected to the British Columbia Legislature for the district of Cassiar and again in 1907, but in 1907 and 1909 was defeated for the district of Atlin. After he gave up the sea he turned his attention to mining and went of the west coast of Vancouver Island to Cassiar and up into the Atlin district. He is hale and hearty and is seen frequently on the streets of Victoria. He also spends a good deal of his time in Vancouver.

In 1892 he married the youngest daughter of Alexander Munro, chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, who is still living in Victoria.
